RICE STRIKE SHOWS SIGNS OF BREAK-UP; DEPOTS OPEN

Indications That Meeting Today May End Deadlock

SENTIMENT TURNS

Dealers Urged To Accept Council's Assurances; Some Shops Selling

There were strong evidences last night that the rice strike may be brought to a settlement today. Following the receipt of the open letter sent out by the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night, appealing to the merchants in the Settlement to resume business and assuring them of the Council's good intentions, the merchants yesterday called another meeting, which will be held at the Chia Kuo Tang Rice Guild building this morning. It was confidently expected last night by men in close touch with the situation that the dealers will act upon the advice of the Chamber and that a day will be announced for the simultaneous re-opening of the shops in International, French and Chinese territory.

With the opening yesterday of a number of rice distribution depots in Nantao and Chapei, the reported resumption of sales by a small number of shops throughout the city and a decidedly noticeable swinging of popular opinion in favor of acceptance by the merchants of the Council's promises, the tenseness of the situation slackened considerably. Police vigilance, however, was strictly maintained in all districts and there was no relaxation of the official attitude of preparedness for emergencies.

ONE MAN IN COURT

An isolated instance of disorder, which could not be considered as in any way approaching a disturbance, and one in Nantao, where a crowd visited the Magistrate's yamen to petition for relief, are the only incidents which occurred. The case in the Settlement was that of an unemployed chauffeur who, with another man, interfered with a coolie who was transporting rice from a godown to the How Suy Cotton Mill in Lay Road. The man was charged with conduct likely to interfere with public safety and with larceny of two bags of rice and the police yesterday emphasised the gravity of the defendant's action in view of present conditions. The accused denied intent to seize the rice and protested that he was merely trying to find out where it came from in order that he might buy a supply. The first charge was dismissed but the prisoner was sentenced to a month's imprisonment on the larceny charge.

It was reported early yesterday morning that three large shops in Chapei were selling rice to customers, limiting single purchases to $1 and making sales on a basis of $14 per picul. In Nantao it was reported that the Sin Chong Rice Threshing Mill was also making sales, but at a minimum of a half-picul in quantity. Sales were also observed on some of the rice boats anchored off the Nantao Bund and there was heavy buying in the Poolung shops by purchasers who travelled over by sampan from the Yangtszepoo district. The shops at Lunghua, which have remained open in response to the appeal of the Defense Commissioner, were also visited by many people from Shanghai, business being so brisk that it was announced stocks would only last for about five days longer.

EIGHT DEPOTS OPENED

Up to last night the opening of eight different rice depots in Chinese territory had been reported and it was stated that others would be put into operation if conditions demand. This development has been hailed with satisfaction by official circles, for with provision made to take care of the poorer classes, who buy their rice from day to day, prospects of serious disturbances are fading. The places opened in Nantao are at the Sih Ling Temple, outside the West Gate; the "Public Rice Congee Depot," outside the South Gate, and at the Charitable Institution, near the Bund. In Chapei the places reported opened are located at the Huchow and Haining Guild, the Constructors' Guild, the Konpeh boat tax office

Bavarian Prince Becomes A Monk; Celebrates First Mass

Prince George of Bavaria, grandson of Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, recently ordained a monk, celebrated his first mass at a Jesuit convent at Innsbruck. The Prince was a major in the Austrian Army during the war. He was married to the Archduchess Isabella of Austria, but the pair were divorced soon after their marriage because of some ritual oversight in the ceremony.

BRITISH TRADE SHOWS NEW SIGNS OF IMPROVEMENT

Head Of Manchester Chamber Expresses Belief Tide Has Turned

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—Addressing the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, Sir Edwin Stockton, the President, hopefully reviewed the present trade position. He said there was every reason to believe that we had turned the corner, and there were distinct signs of a desire to come into the market. There had been a big decline in values, which made trade easier to finance, and the risk of loss had been greatly reduced.

These inducements, he said, could not fail to attract many far-seeing buyers. He spoke very optimictically of the cotton industry, because the world could not wait indefinitely for its requirements to be satisfied, and must return to cotton goods owing to their comparative cheapness.

London, July 6.—In a survey of the situation, Mr. F. C. Goodenough, Chairman of Barclay's Bank, declares that the country is on the eve of a moderate trade revival but that there will be no trade boom like that which occurred early in 1920. Mr. Goodenough says that that is not desired. There is good ground for hoping that slow and steady progress will now begin.

Agricultural Bill Read Second Time Before Commons

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—The bill decontrolling agriculture in view of the country's inability to continue the policy of guaranteeing minimum prices for wheat and oats, was read for a second time in the House of Commons today by 278 votes to 113, after the Government had been sharply criticised for its reversal of its policy which it defended on the ground of excessive liability in connection with the guarantees, owing to unforeseen circumstances.

Doughboys On Rhine Have Noisy Fourth

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Chicago, July 5.—Most of the large American cities report a "safe and sane" Fourth of July, with few mishaps.

New York, July 5.—According to a despatch from Coblenz, the American "doughboys" in Germany celebrated a noisy Fourth with fireworks.

Alliance Of White Armies With Japan Foreseen By Moscow In Coming Clash

Chita Traders Uneasy Over Report That Fifth Army Which Overthrew Koltchak Is To Be Sent To The Amur

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 4.—The following is the conclusion of the report of the Chinese Official Observer, the first section of which was issued yesterday:

"Mr. Krasnoschekoff, who had made arrangements some time ago to go to the Crimea for his health, has not got farther than Irkutsk and is actually expected to return to Chita in the next few days. The reason for his return is the sudden change in the trend of events at Vladivostok and in the Priamur.

It would appear that Moscow stopped his journeying further to the west and, since his arrival at Irkutsk, he has been in telegraphic communication with the Soviet capital with regard to the joint steps that are to be taken once the Whites take the offensive in the Ussuri district, and the possibility of the active assistance of the Japanese.

Reports are in circulation that as a result of these pourparlers it has been decided to send the 5th Army, which was responsible for the defeat of the Koltchak forces, to the Amur. The Amur Railway is already under military control and the military authorities have likewise taken over a number of vessels of the Amur fleet, which have been nationalised.

TROOPS NOT WANTED

The idea of the probable advent of these Soviet troops is not being relished by Chita traders, who are afraid that their stocks will be requisitioned, and Chinese merchants affirm that they will have to close down their businesses as soon as these soldiers begin to arrive. The Chita Government itself is in no way anxious that this Soviet Army should be brought in, hence the official reply of Mr. Yourin to the Moscow Soviet politely refusing the proffered armed assistance.

But it seems certain that willy-nilly, the Soviet forces will be sent forward if the present White movement becomes more intensive, with or without Japanese assistance. Soviet Russia does not intend to allow any hostile force to enter either the Amur or the Trans-Baikal Provinces. Of this there can be no doubt and, as this fact must be known to Japan, it will hardly be policy on her part to assist the present White movement, for it may mean the actual absorbing of the present Buffer State by Soviet Russia.

UNSETTLED CONDITIONS

There can be no hope of peace and order being restored east of Baikal so long as there remains an armed force that is hostile to the Far Eastern Republic Government, and therefore trade will not be restored until such a force is liquidated. This the non-military party in Japan cannot fail to realise. On the other hand, if a final liquidation of the said opposing armed forces actually takes place and the evacuation of the Japanese Expeditionary Force is begun, the writer sincerely believes that the present Chita Government will become more and more democratic and will eventually contain a minority of Communists.

GIVES REASONS

The reason for this assumption is that in the first place the majority of the residents in Eastern Siberia are not Bolshevists and Soviet Russia will not for the time being withdraw the consent she gave for the creation of a Buffer State on democratic lines. The Laws of Constitution, passed by the Constituent Assembly, though at present only on paper, will be carried out in letter, when times become normal again and these laws are in themselves most democratic.

We shall find that when the next election takes place the Bolshevists will lose a great number of their seats and many of the prominent Communists will return to Soviet Russia on account of their ideals. Already the Chita Government is gradually allowing non-Bolsheviks to become Ministers, because they have no alternative, seeing that they are anxious for an influx of foreign capital into the Far Eastern Republic."

PEKING SENDS ANSWER

Peking, July 6.—Replying to a note from M. Tchitcherin, the Soviet Foreign Minister, suggesting co-operation between the Soviet and Chinese Governments against Baron Ungern, the Waichiaopu has informed Moscow that the Chinese Government has given General Chang Tso-lin full responsibility for dealing with Ungern's forces, and that General

BURGLAR KILLS BRITISH YOUTH AT YOKOHAMA

Ronald Hill, Son Of F. N. Hill, Is Stabbed To Death By Intruder

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, July 6.—Mr. Ronald Hill, the young son of Mr. F. N. Hill, Secretary of the British Association of Japan, was stabbed and killed by a burglar at Yokohama in the early hours of this morning. Young Mr. Hill, who recently returned from school in England, attempted to seize the intruder, who stabbed him and then made good his escape. The victim succumbed immediately.

Troops Called At Fires In Madras To Quell Strikers

(Reuter's Service)

Madras, July 5.—Two thousand persons are homeless as the result of two fires which have occurred. The cotton mill workers who are on strike tried to prevent the police and firemen from extinguishing the fires. The troops were called out, whereupon the strikers temporarily retired.

French Securities Growing In Volume

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 1.—Following upon the recent issue by the French Government of short-term bonds, which met with an unqualified success netting over £200,000,000 at par in 20 days, large issues of bonds by various cities, industrial concerns and shipping companies are being readily absorbed by French investors.

GUNBOATS SENT TO TAMPICO TO GUARD PROPERTY

American Interests Menaced By Closing Down Of Oil Operations

(Reuter's Service)

Mexico City, July 5.—General Obregon has ordered the oil companies which discontinued operations in the States of Tamaulipos and Vera Cruz, "without sufficient justification," to indemnify the employes, who have been rendered idle.

It is believed that the laborers are entitled to three months pay.

Over ten thousand workmen have been dismissed in the Tampico region. It is believed that this is a reprisal for the increase of the oil export tax.

Washington, July 5.—The cruiser, Cleveland, and the gunboat, Sacramento have been ordered to Tampico with a view to protecting United States interests in the event of their being endangered owing to labor troubles arising from the closing down of oil operations there.

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Mexico, July 5.—British interests are increasing the scope of their operations on the new gushers in the State of Tabasco. There are indications that the field will prove a very rich one.

NEW ITALIAN CABINET

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, July 4.—Signor Bonomi, former Minister of War, has formed a cabinet in which he temporarily assumes the portfolio of Foreign Minister.

Paris, July 5.—The Marquis della Torreta has telegraphed to Rome from Paris accepting the portfolio of Foreign Affairs in the new Italian Cabinet.

Parade Of 'Wets' Is Reviewed By New York's Mayor

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 5.—The Major of New York, Mr. Hylan, today reviewed a parade of several thousand anti-prohibitionists. Each individual wore a miniature liquor-bottle on his coat lapel. Three hundred organisations, including a hundred Italian societies, were represented in the procession, and the bands played drinking songs. It is worthy of note that few women participated in the demonstration.

MACHINE GUN CO. ASKS FOR DRIVERS OF ARMORED CARS

S.V.C. Unit Needs British Chauffeurs Who Are Motor Mechanics

The Officer Commanding the Machine Gun Company of the Shanghai Volunteer Corps is anxious to commence the enrolment of qualified men, of British nationality, to act as drivers of the Armored Car Section of the Company.

One armored car is already in possession of the unit and the provision of further cars is in contemplation, so that a very considerable number of drivers will be required, in order that there may be a reasonable distribution of hours of duty in case of mobilisation.

Accordingly, it is also desired to register the names of those who are willing to give their services as drivers when called upon later. Drivers must be not only fully competent to drive the cars but must also have considerable knowledge of motor mechanics.

Applications for enrolment, stating qualifications, should be addressed to Captain H. E. Middleton, M. [illegible] Commanding Machine Gun Company, S. V. C., c-o Finance Dept. S. M. C., who will supply any required information on the subject.

Further, it is desired to recruit a large number of suitable men, of British nationality, who will eventually qualify for transfer, as trained Machine Gunners, to man the Armored Car Section of the Company. Applications for enrolment should likewise be addressed to Captain Middleton, as above.

COST OF STRIKE TO BRITAIN RUNS TO LARGE TOTAL

Arrangements Now Under Way To Resume Shipments On Moderate Scale

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—In connection with the resumption of work in the coalfields, provisional arrangements have already been made on a moderate scale to resume coal shipments. The hope is expressed that ships this month will proceed to Port Said and India with coals, and that after discharging they will be in a position to proceed to other Eastern markets to load homeward cargoes.

London, July 6.—At question time in the House of Commons yesterday, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Robert Horne, stated that the cost of the measures taken by the Government in connection with the coal strike was as follows:

Defence force and army reserve	£7,000,000
Navy	£1,225,000
Air Force	£330,000
Civil emergency forces	£300,000

In addition to these and the subsidy of £10,000,000 to the miners, he said, there might be a further charge in respect of coal purchased abroad and the cost of indemnifying the railways.

Japanese Educator For Disarmament

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, July 5.—Professor Shigeo Suyehire, professor of law at the Imperial University of Kyoto, expressed himself today as greatly encouraged at the result of the conference between Senators Borah and Kenyon on the subjects of disarmament. The Professor said that the movement in favor of a limitation of armaments had the active political support of the business interests and the ardent approval of the masses in Japan.

Burning Of The Tokuyo Maru At Sea

This remarkable photograph shows the 10,000 ton Japanese steamer Tokuyo Maru burning sixty miles off the Oregon Coast. Sixty-five persons were rescued from the vessel by the United States Army transport Buford. It was reported that eight persons lost their lives.

Council To Proceed With Bund Widening Scheme

Decision Is Announced In Letter To Civic League; Another Petition Endorsing Plan Received

The Council's determination to proceed with the Bund widening scheme, affecting the Public Gardens, regarding which controversy has raged for the past several weeks with much circulation of petitions pro and con and writing of letters to the newspapers, is announced in a letter being sent by the Municipal body today to the chairman of the Civic League, and published in today's Municipal Gazette.

The Council's reasons for its action are set forth also in the Gazette, together with a reply to the last letter of the Civic League and with notification of the receipt of a further petition yesterday, signed by many prominent ratepayers and urging that the widening scheme be entered upon without delay.

The petition received yesterday states that its signers consider the work an absolute necessity and is signed by Messrs. H. Arnhold, Ellis Hadyn, V. Meyer, N. G. Maitland, C. A. Skinner, C. L. Seitz, M. H. Logan, F. S. Gibbings, W. H. Barham, R. E. S. Gregson, J. H. Teesdale, A. H. Hatherley, F. A. Fairchild, A. V. Monk, A. E. Algar, J. T. M. Brooke, M. G. Beck, Robt. S. Ivy, A. J. Welch, E. H. McMichael, S. J. Deeks, R. W. Robertson, E. T. Byrne, H. H. Read, Benjamin and Potts.

COUNCIL STATES POSITION

The following statement of its position, together with a further letter in answer to the arguments presented by the opposing petitioners is also contained in today's Gazette:

"The Council has given its earnest consideration to the question of continuance or otherwise of the Bund Improvement and Garden Reclamation Scheme. Petitions both for and against have been submitted, and the project has been examined in detail to see wherein objection can reasonably be sustained in the interests not only of the general development of the Settlement, but of the convenience of the residents of today.

"In the first place it seems requisite to correct a popular misapprehension that it is the intention to improve the Bund Road to the permanent detriment of the Public Garden. The scheme which has been approved contemplates the continuation up to the Garden Bridge of the Bund widening which has already been carried out, with but little interior alteration to the Garden, which by reason of the reclamation works, will be increased in area by approximately half a mow.

"On the one hand the Council is obliged to have regard to the consideration that a widening of this section of the Bund Road is urgently necessary to facilitate the passage of traffic both over the Garden Bridge and along the Soochow Road, and is the logical continuation of [illegible] improvement works which have already been completed, while the need for sub-division in the further section of heavy and fast light traffic, will in any case need a permanent traffic island, which will be used when occasion so requires, as a motorcar rank.

TRAM EXTENSION FACTOR

"The Council is further impelled to action by the fact that installation by the Tramway Co. of railless trams in the Peking Road, as sanctioned, will infallibly increase the volume of traffic in this neighborhood.

"On the other hand, the project involves removal of several trees some of which can, however, be transplanted to other suitable positions in the Garden, while others may suitably remain within the lines of the traffic island.

"The question of permanent detriment to the Public Garden does not arise, since the area excised for the road, will be more than made good by the area reclaimed.

"In the circumstances, therefore, the Council considers that in the general interest of the Settlement, the reasons for outweigh those against the scheme, and they have decided accordingly to proceed with the work of reclamation forthwith and to delay the remainder until trees can be removed in the Autumn.

"The cost is estimated at Tls. 42,500 for which provision is contained in the current Budget, and which, in the circumstances, is considered by the Council to be money well spent.

REPLIES TO ARGUMENTS

The other letter to Mr. Hughes follows:

Council Room,
Shanghai, July 7, 1921.

"Sir.—I am directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of June 27, forwarding a further 123 signatures to the petition you have presented on the subject of the Bund Improvement and Garden Reclamation project.

"As regards the views of the Civic League which you have defined so clearly in your letter, I am directed to point out that in matters affecting the governing of the Settlement, the Council is not concerned with the number of those ratepayers who do or do not attend the annual meeting. Full details regarding public activities is given in the annual report or the Budget

TACIT TRUCE IN IRELAND NOW SEEN AS PROBABILITY

Pause In Operations Of Opposing Forces Is Looked For

SMUTS GOES BACK

Lloyd George Receives Word From De Valera On Proposals

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—It has now transpired that General Smuts was aboard the steamer which arrived at Kingstown today but he did not appear because he wished to avoid a public reception. Subsequently, when those who were expecting him had departed, he motored to Dublin and called on the Lord Mayor.

Reuter's Agency learns that as a consequence of yesterday's conference at Dublin, an atmosphere has been created which is likely to lead to a tacit suspension of operations by the opposing forces in Ireland while the peace parleys continue. The Crown is gradually easing up its repressive measures in order not to hamper the peace makers, and it is hoped that the Sinn Feiners will similarly suspend their offensive, although the difficulties of control in the latter case are recognised.

It is pointed out that practically no executions have taken place in the past few weeks, and a more optimistic air reigns in well informed circles.

London, July 6.—It is stated that General Smuts will probably remain in Dublin until Sunday and that the Earl of Midleton, the Leader of the Southern Unionists, has arrived in London after attending the Dublin conference and was handed Mr. Lloyd George a sealed letter from Mr. de Valera, replying to certain proposals made by the Government.

Meanwhile, General Smuts, as at certain periods during the war, has again become the chief personality featured in the London press. He lunched with Mr. de Valera yesterday and hopes to meet Irishmen of all shades of politics. His visit coincides with much more cheerful feelings in Dublin.

London, July 6.—General Smuts returned to London this morning after a single day in Dublin.

BRITAIN MEETING MATURING BONDS WITH NEW ISSUE

Securities To Carry Interest At 5½ Percent; Mature April 1, 1929

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—In the House of Commons today Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, announced that on Monday next the prospectus was being issued of a new issue of five and one-half percent treasury bonds to be issued at 97 and to mature on April 1, 1929. No limit, he said, was being set as to the amount of the loan and no period fixed for subscriptions.

The sole object of the new issue was to provide for the redemption of maturing obligations and to avoid undue recourse to treasury bills and ways and means advances. Holders of five percent exchequer bonds maturing on October 5 and national war bonds maturing next year and the year following would be able to convert these into bonds of the new issue.

Reuter learns that the new treasury bonds will be convertible at the holder's option on April 1 or October 1, 1922 into three and one-half percent conversion loan at the rate of £146 in conversion loan for each hundred pounds worth of bonds converted. The government is anxious to clear away, so far as possible, the embarrassment of the heavy obligations maturing during the next five years. These include to the amount of debt of eighty millions owing to the United States and Canada, and three hundred millions in war bonds to mature this year and early in 1922.

REPORTS DIFFER ON OUTBREAK IN UPPER SILESIA

Clash Between Inhabitants Of Beuthen Occurs As Troops Are Entering Town

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, July 5.—The Allgemeine Zeitung's correspondent at Beuthen in Upper Silesia reports that Allied troops, mostly British, whilst marching into the town yesterday morning were acclaimed by the populace, but when the people began to sing patriotic songs the French guard attacked them with their rifle-butts. Shots were afterwards fired, with the result that a French major was killed and several French soldiers wounded. Upon this, the Frenchmen lost control and attacked the crowd, and several women and children are reported to have been killed. Twenty citizens, including the first and second burgomasters, have been arrested as hostages.

Paris, July 5.—A telegram from Oppeln sheds a different light on the incident which occurred yesterday morning at Beuthen when the French guard, it was alleged, attacked the inhabitants. The message says that while the French troops were entering Beuthen, the German inhabitants made a demonstration in the course of which a French major was fired at and killed and two French sergeants slightly injured. The murderer escaped.

British and French troops later dispersed the demonstrators, two of whom were killed and several injured.

Disease Commission Reports On Reforms Started In Shanghai

Announced At London Meeting Many Recommendations Will Be Carried Out

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—The Eastern Commission of the National Council for Combating Venereal Diseases, reporting at its annual meeting, stated that owing to the progressive view held by the Municipal Council of Shanghai, there was every prospect that many of the recommendations it made would be carried out. Since the visit of the Commission, the National Council had been informed that a venereal specialist would be appointed and arrangements made for the treatment of seafarers and also that a Shanghai Welfare Association had been formed.

No definite information had been received in regard to the opening of a seafarers' clinic at Hongkong, but the commission reported that the governor had requested them before leaving to confer with the principal civil medical officer and had also courteously agreed to arrangements for the distribution of literature through the Colonial Secretary. It was pointed out that the Public Health administration in the East was faced with a difficult problem and that even in Hongkong, which has been a Crown Colony for eighty years, many urgent problems required attention. Infant mortality, it was stated, was extremely high and venereal disease very prevalent.

City Pays Tribute As King And Queen Drive Over Decorated Route

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—The City paid a tribute to gallant little Belgium today, when the King and Queen of the Belgians drove along a gaily decorated route from Buckingham Palace to the Guildhall, escorted by Life Guards and cheered by enthusiastic crowds all along the way. A distinguished company had gathered at the Guildhall and included the Duke of Connaught, the Duke of York, six Princesses, Field-Marshal Lord Haig, Admiral Lord Beatty, Field-Marshal Lord French and the Foreign Minister, Lord Curzon.

Replying to a toast at the luncheon which followed, King Albert dwelt on the necessity for making Germany pay, and said he hoped that the commercial relations between Great Britain and her Dominions and Belgium would increase.

Chang has sufficient troops for this purpose.

The reply adds that the Chinese Government is aware of the Semenoff movement in Manchuria, but does not apprehend any difficulty in dealing with it.

FORCES SCATTERING

(Dalta News Agency)

Harbin, July 2.—The disintegration of Semenoff-Kappel armies is past approaching its last stage. The commanders of separate regiments are acting on their own initiative, deserting from one group to the other. The Generals of the rear, having seen wonderful possibilities are intriguing with each other, pledging the deluded soldiers to support their personal aims.

Many Semenoffists save themselves by fleeing the country. The railway between Nicolsk and Rasdolnoye has changed hands several times within the last few days. In these circumstances the situation in Vladivostok is desperate.

The city is taxed to capacity with soldiers and officers, with roaming military detachments Searches and arrests are incessant. The State machinery is at standstill. The employes of government establishments are wasting away their time having no definite work or instructions. Others are following the example of their superiors, engaging themselves in commission business, selling the public property.

Strike Of Rice Dealers Believed To Be Near End

and the Kiangyin Rice Guild. Amounts to be purchased were limited to five shun for each buyer, at 17 coppers per shun—which figures out at about $11.50 per picul. Hours at which rice will be thus sold are fixed at from 8 to 11 a.m. and 2 to 5 p.m.

Several of the smaller food shops in the Settlement closed their doors yesterday owing to the rice shortage but the authorities are investigating and it is understood that means of relief for such establishments are being considered.

DEALERS ARE CRITICISED

Evidences of the switching of public opinion against the striking dealers included the publication of editorials by various Chinese newspapers advising the acceptance of the licensing regulation under the Council's assurances and the distribution of thousands of anonymous anti-strike handbills. The latter attack the merchants with the accusation that they are profiteering in the exportation of rice to foreign countries and thereby forcing prices up here. They impugn also the sincerity of the opposition to the licensing regulation and declare that the only sufferers through the closure of the shops will be the poorer class.

Lengthy correspondence on the licensing regulation is published in today's Municipal Gazette. The correspondence is between the Council and the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and the Council and the Woosung-Shanghai Rice Stabilisation Society. That between the Municipal Body and the Chamber has already been printed, either in full or in substance and that with the Stabilisation Society covers much the same ground.

and the Council would not be justified in accepting your contention that because less than 100 ratepayers were present, the 1,700 who stayed away agreed with your contention.

"You will I am sure realise that, on the contrary, the absence from the ratepayers meeting of by far the greater proportion of ratepayers might reasonably be taken to indicate their acquiescence in the Council's proposals, of which they have had notice, and that were the Council to endeavor to set aside the decision of the meeting on the grounds stated in the petition you have presented, it might indeed be considered that such action was unwarrantable.

"I may add for your information, that of the names attached to your petition, not half are ratepayers, and while any resident of the Settlement is entitled to sign a petition and such petition will receive consideration, the Council cannot regard such as an authoritative mandate to suspend certain works, the execution of which has been begun.

"At the same time, work has been stopped pending that careful reconsideration of the project from all points of view, which has now taken place, and I am directed to inform you, that, for the reasons stated in today's issue of the Municipal Gazette, it has been decided to proceed with the improvement.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,

Literary Laundryman Strikes Snag In Court

Feng Yuen-lung, head of the "Shanghai Laundry-Men's Guild," which recently promulgated a column and a half of "Reasons for Increasing Laundry Charges Toward Patrons" and thereby sadly puzzled all the patrons in town and started a controversy with another guild, has come to grief. He was sentenced to three months' imprisonment by the French Mixed Court yesterday for actions calculated to disturb the peace and the guild, located off Avenue Foch, was ordered permanently sealed, its furniture and books to be confiscated. An action between the two laundrymen's organisations is pending in the International Mixed Court. Feng is given the option of paying a $90 fine.

RICSHA MAN'S ASSAULT CHARGE DENIED IN COURT

Accused Maintains Coolie Aggressor; Drew Pistol In Self Defense

A charge of assaulting a ricsha coolie, of damaging his vehicle, of carrying, and threatening a crowd in front of his home at G15 Mandalay road with, a loaded pistol was preferred against K. D. K. Chang, an American citizen, in the United States Court for China yesterday. Testimony of the complainant, the arresting officer and the accused was taken when the hearing was adjourned for the production of further witnesses this morning.

The accused denied almost in full the story of complainant, telling the court instead that he was the one who had been assaulted, that he had finally struck the coolie and stood in his doorway with a drawn pistol in mere self defense, because of a threatening crowd on the street.

The difficulty grew out of short payment for a ricsha ride. The coolie complained that Chang slapped him when he asked for full payment, then overturned his ricsha, and finally brought from inside his house a pistol with which he threatened the crowd gathered outside.

Chang admitted underpaying the coolie, but maintained that the coolie first assaulted him. When he kicked the coolie in return he testified a crowd of about 20 gathered, twelve of whom attacked him. It was then that he went into the house for the gun, and exposed it to the view of the mob.

Adjournment was taken until this morning for the calling of witnesses for the accused.

Eugen Onegin

Probably more at home with Tchaikowsky, singing their own Russian music, the Russian Opera Company delighted a good house at the Olympic Theater with the rendition of "Eugen Onegin" and it is a pity that the audience did no tax the capacity of the playhouse.

With Mr. Busanovsky, Mr. Radeeff, Miss Burskaia and Miss Mashir as the leading soloists with Miss Fiber, Miss Valentinova, Mr. Karlash and Mr. Kosloff in other principal parts, it was a remarkable performance in many ways. Mr. Radeeff sang the title role, with Mr. Busanovsky singing the part of Lenski, his friend.

The story of Eugen Onegin, who spurns the country girl that subsequently becomes a princess and is then the object of his unrequited love, is rather flimsy in spots but the music—Tchaikowsky—is beautiful and the principals handled thier music unusually well.

Despite the heat and humidity a good audience heard the opera, which speaks well for the appreciation Shanghai has for the talented company.

As in the production of other pieces, the Company last night was handicapped by lack of scenery and scenic effects but they were well nigh perfect in singing and the four leading artists, Messrs. Busanovsky and Radeeff and Misses Mashir and Burskaia acted excellently.

"Romeo and Juliet" will be sung tonight.

The management has secured the services for three nights of Madame Tcherkassaia, who has sung here several times.

On Monday she will sing the part of "Aida" in the opera of that name and on Wednesday, will take the leading part in "Damon." On Friday she will sing in "Mermaid."

CANTON REPORTS VICTORIES OVER KWANGSI FORCES

Messages To Peking, However, Indicate Cantonese Are Losing Ground

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 6.—A Canton official communique reports the recapture from the Kwangsi invaders of Yangshan, on the North River front.

A force of Kwangsi-ites which assumed the offensive against Wuchow has been repulsed and pursued by Cantonese in the direction of Hanchow.

It is reported that troops from Yunnan, Hunan and Kweichau are attacking Kwangsi and threatening Kweilin.

General Chen Chiung-ming has issued a circular announcement of his election as "Commander-in-Chief of the Allied forces of Kwangtung, Hunan, Yunnan, Kiangsi and Kweichau against Kwangsi."

Peking, July 6.—Numerous Government telegrams from the South indicate a considerable strengthening of the Kwangsi positions, with a consequent growing optimism on the part of the Kwangsi authorities.

Reports Of Pogroms Denied In Moscow

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow (by mail), May 20.—The American representative of All-Russian Jewish Public Committee has cabled as follows to Dr. D. Dubrowsky, the Representative of Soviet Russia in America:

"The American Jewish press of February and March contains reports of progroms against the Jewish population of Ukraine, in the cities of Odessa, Ekaterinoslav, Kiev, and others; in view of the fact that these reports are absolutely false, the Jewish Publicity Committee is compelled to issue a categorical denial. The Jewish Public Committee announces that during the period in question, no pogroms occurred in Ukraine or in any other place under the control of the Soviet Government."

MUNICIPAL STAFF CHANGES

Notification of the dismissal of the eight police constables who protested against their wage scale and working conditions and petitioned for leave to resign, is contained in today's Municipal Gazette. The following changes in the Municipal staff are reported for the week ended July 2.

Defense Questions Are Taken Up By London Conference

Development Of Air Service Subject Of Reports Made By Officials

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—A communique issued by the conference of Imperial Prime Ministers states that the Secretary of State for War and the Chief of the Imperial Staff made statements at today's sitting regarding military defence, after which the Minister for the Air and the Chief of the Air Staff dealt with the development and potentialities of the air service.

Short discussions on each subject followed, the Ministers and expert advisers concerned being asked questions. Departmental committees were appointed to consider and report on certain subjects.

A further communique states that, after discussion, a resolution was passed constituting a committee with Mr. Winston Churchill as chairman and including one representative of Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India, in consultation as required with the President of the Board of Trade, the Minister for the Air and the Postmaster-General.

The committee will consider and report on as soon as possible the question of practical means available for the development of imperial communications by land, sea, air, cable and radio-telegraphy and telephony.

The report of the discussion will be issued tomorrow, when the German reparations payment will also be discussed.

Peking Reluctant To Start War In Shensi Province

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 7.—Although General Yen Hsiang-wen, the new Tuchun of Shensi, has repeatedly petitioned the Government to declare a state of war in Shensi and to permit the forcible expulsion of the ex-Tuchun, General Chen Shoo-fan, the President and the Cabinet are unwilling to take such an extreme step owing to the suffering which it would bring upon the people of Shensi.

It is understood however that a council of the Chihli military staff, held at Paotingfu, has decided to request the Government to issue a mandate declaring hostilities against General Chen Shoo-fan.

Peking, July 6.—Following upon the defeat of Shensi troops by General Feng Yu-hsiang, who dispersed the Shensi forces at Linghounchen, General Chen Chu-fan, telegraphing to the Government, says he has sent representatives to meet General Yen, the new Tuchun, to whom he is ready to hand over the seals of office when the latter arrives.

The telegram is couched in humbler language than that of earlier despatches but expresses the hope that the Government will give due consideration to General Chen Shu-fan's desire to safeguard the interests of his officers and men.

Lusitania Victims Buried In Ireland

Washington, May 27.—The graves of two young women who perished with the Lusitania have been discovered on the Aran Islands, off the coast of Ireland, according to advices to the American Red Cross. The organisation is trying to solve the mystery of their identity.

The only known facts are the name of one, Annie Wolverman, and the initials of the other "J. C. C." Whether they were Americans can only be conjectured. So far as has been learned no inquiry concerning their fate has ever been made.

It was during a field visit of a worker connected with the London Chapter of the American Red Cross that the graves were found at Kilronan, where the bodies were washed ashore. The natives gave the bodies decent burial and an American Red Cross worker, with the help of a friend in New York, raised enough money to mark each of the graves with a headstone in the form of a pillar and cross, similar to memorials that are to be seen all along the road leading to the little burying ground.

The initials "J. C. C." were deciphered from a wrist watch worn by one of the young women, while the name Annie Wolverman appeared on an envelope addressed to the Lusitania which was found in the other's clothing. Nothing else about the bodies furnished a clue to their identity.

Wave Of Crime Sweeps Over Germany

Stealing by male and female thieves working in the guise of house servants has reached such tremendous proportions in Germany, and especially in Berlin, that a special department has been organised in police headquarters with a special staff of detectives to combat that form of crime.

Criminal Commissioner Gennst, who is in charge of this department, declared that thefts by alleged "house servants" now aggregated tens of millions of marks aside from the hundreds of reports of occasional pilfering of legitimate servants.

Commissioner Gennst attributes this new specialty in crime to the law put through under pressure of the Socialists, doing away with the requirements of the police that all house servants must have a "service book" issued by the police, and no household could employ any one without such a book. It contained the laws relating to employers and servants, the antecedents of the servant and the name and place where employed and why dismissed or voluntarily left.

The repeal of this law, together with the scarcity of servants has favored the specialty of thieves engaging themselves as house servants in order to ascertain where money and valuables are kept. Usually they operate with false recommendations. The police have advised the public to engage no servants without first making inquiries whether the recommendations presented are false or genuine.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," & "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

"I find your Castoria is very beneficial to the treatment of children's ailments."
F. DAVIS, M. D.,
Chicago, Ill.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
WM. J. MCCRANN, M. D.,
Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where the maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."

WANT RECRUITS FOR RESERVES OF S. M. POLICE

An appeal for more recruits for the Shanghai Municipal Police Reserve is being sent out by the Assistant Commissioner, Mr. A. L. Anderson, who directs the following letter to the various foreign firms in the city:

"In November 1919 the return of members of the Shanghai Municipal Police, Foreign Branch, whose war service had been made possible by the formation of the Special Constabulary, rendered further regular duty by that body unnecessary, and it had since the time been held ready for sudden emergencies as the 'S.M.P. Reserve,' its duties, apart from riot duty, being practically nominal.

"As a matter of fact, since foreigners whether in the regular force or the reserve are expected to act upon their own initiative when on duty, the number of drill attendances required is very small. On the other hand, good shooting with the Reserve's arm the .45 Colt automatic, is insisted on, and while a quarterly qualification, snap-shooting at moving targets, is necessary, members are encouraged to shoot as often as they like.

"To retain knowledge of the streets of the Settlement and permit of the warning officer keeping in touch with their men one or two turnouts—two hours each—are made every quarter when the supervision of Asiatic police or the conduct of search parties is performed.

"In 1920 the Council directed me to keep the S.M.P. (Reserve) to the fullest strength possible and it is in the hope that some of the foreign members of your staff who are not yet doing community-service will embrace this opportunity and enlist, that I venture to address you.

"Winter and summer uniform is furnished gratis and the form of agreement with the Council whereby bona fide acts of members of the Reserve are legalised is terminable at one month's notice on either side.

"To prevent any misunderstanding I should add that the S.M.P. Reserve is intended to quell sudden disturbances by an augmented exhibition of civil authority and moral suasion, without resort to military demonstration.

"I enclose herewith a number of recruiting forms, and beg that you will be so good as to circulate this letter among your employees.

A. L. Anderson,
Assistant Commissioner of Police, Reserve."

Bruce Hopper, Who Walked Over Himalayas, And J. W. Hall To Make Talks

Bruce C. Hopper and Josef W. Hall of THE CHINA PRESS staff will be the speakers today at the weekly meeting of the Shanghai Rotary Club to be held at the Astor House Hotel.

Mr. Hopper has recently arrived in Shanghai after a three-months' walking trip from Burma over the Himalayan Mountains into China, skirting Thibet to the upper waters of the Yangtsze River, navigating the rapids in a small boat. Part of the trip was made through hitherto unexplored country. Mr. Hopper will describe his experiences.

Mr. Hall, who is the Peking correspondent of THE CHINA PRESS and has delivered several lectures on the Kansu earthquake, will speak on "Social Life in the Northwest Provinces of China."

Council Proposes Regulations For All Public Garages

A list of conditions pertaining to the receipt and possession of a license for a public garage in the City of Shanghai, proposed for adoption at an early date, published in this morning's Municipal Gazette pays particular and careful attention to the menace of fire from such places of business.

No alterations or additions or installation of apparatus of any kind will be sanctioned without advance approval by the Council; adequate means of egress from every part of the buildings must be provided; approved fire doors, hydrants, pumping connections, sprinklers, chemical fire extinguishers, sand boxes, and other fire fighting appliances made to the standard city fire brigade pattern and guage must be provided on the premises; no person may sleep on the garage premises unless his sleeping place is separated from the remainder of the premises by approved fire division walls, and provided with separate means of egress.

The withdrawal or suspension and the forfeiture of the whole or part of the deposit of the licencee and a prospect of prosecution are the penalties for violations of the proposed regulations.

Chang Yun-kai Made Charge d'Affaires For China At Berlin

New Traffic Rules To Relieve Stress On Weaker Bridges

Three new freight traffic rules, designed to relieve the stress on the weaker bridges are detailed in this week's Municipal Gazette:

1.—Notice boards will be placed at the approaches to such bridges stating that heavy freight vehicles are not allowed to cross them.

2.—Freight vehicles rated at 8,000 pounds gross weight or over will be classed as heavy freight vehicles and will be required to carry red discs for purposes of identification.

3.—The police will prevent heavy freight vehicles from using the bridges prohibited.

SEVENTH INNING RALLY GIVES ALBANY A 7-7 TIE; DARKNESS STOPS THE PLAY

Shanghai Shuts Sailors Out U ntil Final Frame When Locals Seven Run Lead Is Wip ed Away; Same Teams To Play Again Tomorrow

Seven runs put over the pan in the seventh inning tied up the game yesterday evening between Shanghai and the cruiser Albany after the locals had lead in the totals by 7-0 from the early innings. The game was called at seven o'clock, when the fateful seventh was finally finished, and the contest called a tie. Seven was a lucky number for the sailors.

Maloney, starting in the box for the local nine had things nicely rewn away for his team when at the end of the fourth with seven runs to Shanghai's credit and big zero for the Navy, he was taken out. Arlt carried on nicely until the sailors got to bat in the seventh, when that seven run lead wilted away as quickly and completely as a snowball might if used in summer practice.

Darkness might be offered as a suggestion of an alibi for Shanghai. The first run went over for the Navy when Crow let a throw from first through his legs. It looked to a man in the stands like Brad couldn't see the ball. Krippner later got three bags and sent two more runs over the pan on what should have been a single to center, but which Smith couldn't see, and had to chase to the lawn bowls courts. But there the alibi ends.

The unlucky seventh opened with Florez flying out to right. Liddy and Knearl singled. Liddy scored on Crow's misjudging the throw from first, and Knearl took second. Ertle sacrifice flied out to right. Then Arlt got wild like the guy from Borneo. He filled the bases with two walks. Howard singled cleanly on a drive to right. O'Connell drove a deep one over Merrill's head in left field. Krippner followed with the hit to center that Smith let by and had to marathon after.

The score at this stage had risen (or fallen, as you like it) from 7-0 to 7-6. Shanghai became anxious. Some one yelled at the scorer asking how things stood. Some one else yelled to Arlt to relieve Merrill in the left garden, and give the no-hit, no-run twirler a chance to stop the sailors' advance.

Then some funny baseball happened. It was dark by then Merrill was angry, and his arm showed it. He began to smoke them over, depending on his speed to bewilder the batsmen in the falling duck. Florez popped one toward the box. Merrill grabbed it up and smoked it over to Woods at first. Woods dropped it and Krippner scored the tying run. Liddy came to bat. Merrill's pegging was bordering on wildness by then.

Liddy got decisions for three balls. He thought the third one was the fourth and when he dropped his bat and trotted to first Florez thought he was being forced. He went to second and the ball was returned Roeser to Merrill before it was discovered that but three wide ones had been thrown at Liddy. The latter started back to finish his job of batting. Florez started back to first from second which he had already touched. Merrill threw him out, to Bills, for a run-down to Woods at first. It ended the game. It was seven o'clock. It was dark.

Until the seventh the game was a proper baseball contest. Shanghai's runs were scored on persistent hitting. Nine safeties, including Smith's double, Wilhoit's triple and Pruitt's homer earned those scores for the local nine Only one error figured in the play. The game was fast and clean. Four double plays speak for the fielding. Three sailors were cut off at the very plate, one on a long throw from Merrill in left, another same thing from Smith in center and another from Wilhoit at first. The two "dark" balls, the two walks and the five hits in the seventh however lost the game that Maloney thought he had so securely won when he quit at the end of the fourth. You never can tell what will happen in the "ucky seventh."

The two teams meet again tomorrow evening at 5:15 o'clock.

RECORD LIKE SPONGED SLATE

Flapjack Wilson Never Lost A Decision—Never Had One To Lose

BY 'BUGS' BAER

Hello: I see that some bird took his Waterman in tow to write you. Now I drag my American Lead Co. pencil around by the rubber. Go out of your usual line and do a George Washington. Tell 'em how my pupil Flapjack Wilson put the burly on Gink Fowler in two rounds.

Yours, as much as we have to,
J. DIRKS,
Newark.

Flapjack Wilson never put the burly on the Roughtown champ. Instead, the champ put the frost on Wilson. They called him Flapjack because Gink turned him over so often. Gink led once with his range-finding right. In that fight, which was the shortest on any Columbia record, but eleven rights were swung. Gink swung his once. Then the referee swung his ten times.

Flapjack was sugar in Gink's coffee. The Flap was the vainest man who ever was carried out of the ring. He used to get his nails manicured between rounds. He had his record printed on the soles of his fighting shoes. As he lay in the ring, the folks could read the history of his life on his half-soled and heeled groundgrippers.

Unless we are right, this is Flap's record. By the way, his right title was Icicle Wilson. They called him Icicle because any kid could knock him off. Here's his Bertillion triumph:

Diving Johnson .....O. K.
Siamese Twins..Won and lost

We must explain that. Flap beat one of the twins, who was knocked out and fell to the burlap. The other twin claimed he won. The fight was stopped when the Royal Siamese seconds tried to carry the twins to separate corners.

Dooley Brothers. Draw, 1 and 3.

That requires another explanation. Flap beat Gordon, Bill and Johnny altogether. But each one walloped Flap by himself. Therefore Flap lost three fights and won one.

Four Flying Readings....O. K.
Cardiff Giant ... Jury still out

Just another note. Scientists claim the Cardiff Giant is a fake. Flap didn't know it was made of concrete and crashed it to the cheese cloth with a blow.

Johny Wilde — Never met him.
Jack Britton ... Never fought
Bill Halligan ..... Never met
Jack Dempsey..Didn't fight him
Frank Mackin ..... No fight

So you can see that Flap's record was clean as a hobo's pockets. He was a pushover for Gink. Flap had been to the canvas so often that when barbers shaved him their razors sang like violins. Then Gink went into training for The Glutt.

Australians Win From England By 219 Runs; Declare In Second At 202

England Handicapped And Weakened By Loss Of Four Of Their Strongest Players Due To Injuries And Sickness; Brown, Though Lame, Top Scorer

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 5.—Sunny weather prevailed today at Leeds where the third test match of the present Australian tour ended in a victory for the visitors by 219 runs.

England's bad luck was consistent from the time, when with only 50 runs scored on the opening day, the captain, Major Tennyson, split a finger in fielding. Their greatest misfortune was, of course, in being deprived of the services of Hobbs, on account of appendicitis.

Today Douglas did not take the field, owing to his wife's having to undergo an operation for the same malady, while during the English innings Brown was rendered lame by an injured thigh.

When stumps were drawn last night the Australians had the comfortable lead of 291 runs, with eight wickets in hand in their second innings. This morning the pitch was still in good condition when the not-out batsmen—Andrews, 78; and Carter, 3—went to the wickets. Runs came easily. Andrews was bowled after adding 14 to his overnight score. His 92 included eight boundaries, and was the best effort of the innings. Carter made 47 by unorthodox methods, and was lucky to reach that figure.

AUSTRALIA DECLARES

When 130 runs had been added for a further five wickets, Armstrong declared the innings closed. The English fielding was distinctly good, and the bowling of White, the Somersetshire amateur, who took three wickets for 37 runs, was most accurate.

England entered upon their second innings faced with the task of knocking up 422 runs before close of the day in order to win. Their actual total was 202.

Brown, despite his lameness, was top scorer with 46, in which he brought off some good drives. Woolley compensated for his "duck" in the first innings by staying in 55 minutes for 37, made in excellent style and then played a ball from Mailey into his wicket. Jupp and Tennyson batted vigorously for 28 and 36 respectively, and Hearne added 27, but the remaining batsmen failed to reach double figures. The result was as stated above.

Boxing Matches In Harvard Stadium Are Not Allowed

Harvard University will not sanction the use of its stadium for prize fighting. This was the statement of President Lowell in a letter to officers in charge of plans for the Yankee division reunion, July 2-4, in connection with which a series of bouts, one of them for a world professional championship, had been announced.

SIXTEEN HOME RUNS FOR FOUR GAMES IN SERIES

Remarkable Hitting In Philadelphia Detroit Series Last Month

The mark of seven home runs in a recent game between the Philadelphia and Detroit Americans tied the major league record for circuit drives in a single contest, but it didn't even come close to the world's record.

On July 14, 1902, Corsicana and Texarkana, in a Texas minor league, met in a regularly scheduled game which produced slugging records likely to stand for many years. Nineteen home runs, a dozen triples, ten doubles and almost a dozen singles were clouted out by the batters in this game. Corsicana won by a score of 51 to 3, and the winning team made 53 hits.

Incidentally, "Nig" Clarke, formerly the best backstop of the Cleveland American league club, claims to have established in this game the world's record for home runs by an individual batsman. Clark says that he drove out eight round the sacks hits in this game. Previous data credited Harry Wright of the Cincinnati Reds with the record of seven homers in a game in 1867. Modern records gave the honors to Robert Lowe of Boston, Dan Brouthers of Detroit and Ed Delehanty of Philadelphia with four home runs apiece in one game. Seven home runs were made in a game between St. Louis and Detroit, June 12, 1886.

The Philadelphia-Detroit series in June produced hitting that has never been rivalled in modern major league baseball, however, for the two teams made sixteen home runs in the four games.

WEEKLY SWIMMING MEETING AT ROWING CLUB CLASSED AS BEST OF THE PRESENT SEASON

Lieut. Post Of U. S. S. Huron Plunges 64 ft. 5 ins.; Composite Race Won By E. Buss; Good Team Work Gives Water Polo Event To Whites, 5 To 3 Goals

Last evening the fourth weekly swimming meeting of the Rowing Club took place and it was the best one of the season so far, Mr. Ian Macdonald, bath committeeman, was in charge, assisted by Mr. A. K. Brown and they got through a pleasingly varied little program, consisting of the final heat of the Composite Race (in which competitors swim one length on the breast stroke and return on the back); a plunge for distance competition, the two preliminary heats of the two lengths handicap (free style) and a water polo match.

In the long plunge event, Lt. C. K. Post of the U.S.S. Huron gave a beautiful exhibition plunge of 64 ft. 5 ins. He also took part in the water polo game, which was refereed by Mr. A. K. Brown. H. E. Harris in goal for the Whites gave a fine display, and stopped some hot ones, especially some of the lightning-like shots of Wallin.

The following are the detailed results:

Composite Race, Final Heat:
E. Buss 1
J. B. Brown 2
H. E. Harris 3
Time—58 1-5 secs.

Long Plunge:
E. C. Fetherstonhaugh ....56'4" plus 15' 1
F. Henry .....41'0" plus 26' 2
H. E. Harris ..38'10" plus 26' 3
Also competed: R. A. Berthet, J. E. Henry, E. A. Brodie, J. B. Brown, L. Goldman, Lawrie Smith and B. Wallin.

Two Lengths Handicap:
HEAT 1
E. C. Fetherstonhaugh .. scr. 1
J. E. Henry ..... 7 secs. 2
R. A. Berthet ..... 2 secs. 3
L. Smith ..... 8 secs. 0
Time: 38 secs.
HEAT 2
B. Wallin ..... 2 secs. 1
J. B. Brown ..... 1 sec. 2
L. Goldman ..... 1 sec. 3
H. E. Harris ..... 5 secs. 0
Time' 42 secs.

Water Polo—Whites (Harris, MacCabe and Berthet, Macdonald, J. E. Henry, Brodie and L. Goldman) versus Blues (Begg, Wallin and Post, Brown, F. Henry, A. P Goldman and Tatham).

The Whites were attacking practically all the time, some good team work being witnessed by their side, especially between Berthet and Macdonald. Harris was very sound in goal. Wallin was prominent for the Blues and essayed rather to train his side with passes than to shoot goals himself. He did, however, put through two for his side and Tatham scored one, while Macdonald and L. Goldman scored twice each for Whites and Brodie once.

Final score:
Whites ..... 5 goals
Blues ..... 3 goals

ROCKEFELLER LOSES MATCH

Is Bested In A Foursome By A One-Armed Golf Professional

Briarcliff Manor, N. Y., June 8.—The golf course on the Rockefeller estate in the Pocantico Hills was the scene of a bitterly contested foursome yesterday in which the richest man in the world is reported to have gone down in defeat before a one-armed professional, while two of his guests were fighting it out for first honors in medal play.

Miss Martha A. Jamison of Pittsburgh motored over from Briarcliff Lodge, and with "Artie" Lyons, the one-armed "pro" from Briarcliff, played against Mr. Rockefeller and Dr. Cornelius Woelfkin. It is admitted that Mr. Rockefeller, who was paired with Mr. Lyons, finished the nine holes with a 42, as against his opponent's 34. Miss Jamison declined today to tell the final match score.

Mr. Rockefeller, who is in his eighty-third year, tries to cover nine holes a day in good weather.

"Health Better than it has been for Years."

Our portrait is of Mrs. WOODROW, of 56, Robinson Road, Tooting, London, England, whose husband writes:

"My wife has suffered very badly for the past four or five years with Piles, being unable to sleep at night or get any relief during the day. She tried several advertised remedies, none of which did her any good. Some three weeks ago she thought she would try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and before she had taken half a bottle she was better, and by the time she had finished the second bottle she was quite cured. She can now sleep well, eat well, and get about her work, and her general health is better than it has been for years." In a further letter some eight months later Mr. Woodrow writes: "I am pleased to say that since my wife's cure of Piles in September, 1918, there has been no sign of return of the trouble."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious. Of all Dealers. Ask for and see you get

v.
Fearon, Daniel & Co., Inc.,
Defendant.
Cause No. 1096
Decision
Filed July 5, 1921.
Acting Clerk.

SYLLABUS

1. Employment: Discharge: Onus Probandi.—The burden rests upon the employer to prove justification for discharging an employe especially when no ground is invoked for which the contract of employment provides.

2. Id.: Id.: Grounds.—It is not an implied ground of discharge for an employe to disregard instructions which virtually nullify such contract.

3. Id.: Id.: Id.—Evidence reviewed and found insufficient to show that the employe justified discharge by violating instructions as to purchases, practicing deception upon his employer or conspiring against his manager.

4. Id.: Id.: Id.: Profanity.—Where one employs another knowing, or having opportunity to know, of his use of profanity and later discharges him upon other grounds, such use is not a valid defense to an action for wrongful discharge.

5. Id.: Id.: Id.—Where the employe is given "full power to engage and discharge any and all assistants" he commits no breach thereof by causing the resignation of such assistants.

6. Id.: Id. The measure of damages in an action by the employe for the wrongful termination of his contract (as distinguished from an action for salary) is "the amount he would have received if the contract had been kept" and the burden rests upon the employe to show payments and other deductions.

7. Id.: Id.: Id.: Prospective Profits are recoverable only when made reasonably certain by competent proof.

8. Id.: Id.: An accounting may be ordered in such an action as incidental to the other relief sought.

Sterling Fessenden, Esq. for plaintiff. R. T. Bryan, Jr., Esq. for defendant.

Defendant is a New Jersey Corporation with its home office in New York where plaintiff had been employed by it for nearly five years when, on September 1, 1919, he entered into a written contract with defendant to serve "in the capacity of assistant general manager of the corporation's business at Shanghai." The contract was drawn by the secretary of defendant but is extremely liberal in the privileges and powers it concedes to plaintiff. Under Paragraph 3 he is "given full charge and control of all the export of China produce by the corporation from both its Shanghai and Hankow offices, said business being conducted under the department designation of "Export Department." Mr. Hanish shall be responsible for the exclusive management of the said department; the staff; records and any and all other features connected therewith. Mr. Hanish shall have full power to engage and discharge any and all assistants necessary to the proper and necessary maintenance of the said department, which said department shall consist of and cover each and every article exported from Shanghai and Hankow by the corporation to the U. S. A., Europe, Australia, and to any and all other parts of the World."

His salary is fixed at Tls. 12,000. per annum and he is further granted a bonus of "10 percent of the net profits derived annually from the aforementioned export department." (Par. 10.). The employment was for three years with privilege of renewal at plaintiff's option for two years more and even provided (Par. 1) for further renewal but it specified no ground for termination except in case plaintiff should "be totally incapacitated for a period of three consecutive months" (Par. 13).

Pursuant to this contract plaintiff came to Shanghai and entered upon the duties of "assistant general manager of the corporation's business" and particularly as manager of its export department. Defendant's general manager in Shanghai, who previously had charge of the export department, had known plaintiff during his previous employment by defendant. The evidence discloses that there had been considerable trouble in the conduct of defendant's business in China in which the general manager took an active part and in which also he suspected plaintiff of taking an adverse part. Friction developed soon after plaintiff's arrival and as early as December 28, 1919 the manager wrote plaintiff a letter referring to the previous company troubles and expressing suspicion that plaintiff had been sent out in connection therewith. On June 29 following the manager again wrote plaintiff ordering him to return to New York and "to turn over your department to me as soon as possible" as "I must have absolutely full control." This, plaintiff declined to do except upon conditions which were not complied with and on July 16 the manager wrote him a letter of dismissal, setting forth nineteen grounds and assuming to revoke his authority as assistant treasurer which he was constituted by the contract.

Plaintiff thereupon began this action alleging willingness to perform and wrongful discharge and claiming damages in the sum of Tls. 70,000. Not all the grounds enumerated in the letter of dismissal are set forth in the answer nor are all those in the answer argued in the briefs on which the cause has been submitted, plaintiff's being filed on April 21 and defendant's last brief on April 30 we shall confine this judgment to the points raised in the briefs, treating the others as waived.

The first ground stated in the letter of dismissal is "insubordination in refusing to obey my instructions to go to New York" etc. (Ex. 1) It is undisputed (p. 27) that the home office never gave plaintiff any such instructions and those relied upon as such are contained in the manager's letter (Ex. 2) of June 29 (Ex. 2) in which he says inter alia:

"I consider that the best interest of the business will be served by your making a trip to New York at once. * * I also consider our affairs have reached such a critical state that I must have absolutely full control of every department here. * * Please take immediate steps to secure transportation and arrange to turn over your department to me as soon as possible."

It will be seen that this involved much more than plaintiff's merely going to New York and it seems hardly surprising if he regarded it as an attempt to repudiate his contract which provided that he

"shall be given full charge and control of all the export of China Produce by the corporation from both its Shanghai and Hankow offices, said business being conducted under the department designation of "Export Department." Mr. Hanish shall be responsible for the exclusive management of the said department." (Ex. A)

For how could plaintiff exercise "full charge and control" and "the exclusive management of the said department" if he were to "turn it over" to Mr. Nichols and give the latter "absolutely full control?" Surely an employe is not obliged to observe instructions which virtually destroy his contractual rights.

It is true that the defendant company had undertaken (Ex. A, clause 5) to pay plaintiff's passage to New York at such "time or times as may be found necessary and consented to by it." But this is far authorising it to compel plaintiff to surrender control of his department. Besides defendant itself never "found it necessary" nor "consented" that plaintiff should "return to New York." The manager's letter was an expression of what "I consider" and in his testimony (p. 66) he reiterated:

"I consider that I had the right to give him (plaintiff) any instructions I say fit."

In other words he disregarded entirely the contractual provisions giving plaintiff "full charge and control" and "exclusive management." There is nothing in the contract which justified the manager's claim of the right to give (and much less to enforce) "any instructions I saw fit."

The contract merely provided (Clause 4) that plaintiff "shall always freely (i. e. be free to) consult and advise with the General Manager." Any other interpretation would conflict with the provisions giving plaintiff "full charge and control" and "exclusive management" and an instrument will be so construed as to avoid a conflict if possible. Morever in the same clause which entitles plaintiff to "freely consult and advise with the General Manager" the latter is expressly empowered to impose "restrictions and limitations" upon plaintiff's powers in another position —Assistant Treasurer—but is given no such authority as regards plaintiff's conduct of the export department and the maxim expressio unius est exclusio alterius would seem to apply.

But plaintiff did not refuse absolutely to meet the manager' wishes. On the contrary plaintiff offered (Ex. 6) to conform to them upon certain conditions which the manager rejected (Ex. 3) whereupon plaintiff wrote:

"Under the circumstances nothing else remains to be done, but that I carry on here at the Shanghai Office under the terms and conditions of my contract." (Ex. 7)

He had a right to rely on these "terms and conditions" and such reliance could not be metamorphosed into a ground for discharging him.

II

It is further claimed that plaintiff disregarded instructions by speculating. No provision of the contract is invoked on this point and no other instructions (p. 47) than certain cables all purporting to come not from defendant but from Fearon, Brown & Company, a distinct corporation. The excerpts from these cables relied upon in argument are as follows:

Dec. 23, 1919. "Pending developments financial difficulties all speculation and further expansion must cease." Ex. 11)

Dec. 24, 1919. "Banks restricting credit generally discouraging speculation owing to great uncertainty business." (Ex. 12)

Dec. 29, 1919. "We should not purchase speculatively further until after January." (Ex. C.)

Jan. 15, 1920. "Do not advise you to buy on speculation." (Ex. 17)

Jan. 19, 1920. "Absolutely refrain from speculating imports also to exercise great caution exports." (Ex. 28)

It will be seen that none of these, except possibly the first, amounts to a prohibition of speculating in exports with which alone plaintiff was concerned. Indeed not even the first was treated by the manager as a prohibition of all exports for he claims that "the instructions did not apply to European business." At the same time he admits that he gave plaintiff instructions to make speculative purchases of peanuts to the extent of Tls. 10,000 and of 500 long tons of sesamum seed at Tls. 7.20 per picul pp. 104, 105, 181 (Ex. 32) which at 16½ piculs to the ton would aggregate Tls. 59,400, and that he "conducted the negotiations" for the purchase of 300 piculs of Yunnan goat skins (Ex. 14) which "are of an inferior character to the Szechuen goatskins" which plaintiff is criticised for purchasing. Surely this testimony is material and relevant as disclosing the practical construction placed by the manager himself upon the alleged instructions not to speculate.

The manager answers affirmatively the question

"Now, you claim that those transactions on your part were not a breach of company orders or instructions or policy, but on the part of Mr. Hanish they were."

And the manager's explanation is that his purchases were made before receipt of the cables above quoted relative to speculation. But so were plaintiff's (Ex. 14A, 14B). His were made even before receipt of the cable of Nov. 16, 1919 (Ex. 29) which the manager says was not a cable of instructions. The third ground specified in his letter of discharge, (Ex. 1) viz., "speculative purchase of goatskins contrary to instructions," seems, therefore to lack support even by his own standard.

Much the same may be said as to the fifth of said grounds, viz.

"Speculative purchase of 1,000 piculs Albumen against my advice and contrary to instructions received from New York and contrary to the policy of the Board of Directors."

It will be seen that the manager complains not of speculation "against my instructions" but "against my advice." But there was nothing in the contract which required plaintiff to be governed by the manager's "advice." Had there been, plaintiff would not have had "full charge and control" of his department. In his testimony the manager states that he "gave Mr. Hanish definite instructions not to buy this egg albumen." But this is not only inconsistent with his letter above quoted; it is positively denied by plaintiff.

As to the alleged "instructions received from New York" they are admittedly all contained in the cables already quoted. It will be seen that one of them (Ex. "C") discouraged (though it does not prohibit) speculative purchases "until after January." That implied the permissibility of speculation "after January." Now according to the compradore, who was defendant's witness, the conversation between plaintiff and the manager, regarding this albumen purchase, occurred "about end of January—beginning of February." Surely such purchase then was not "contrary to instructions received from New York."

Nor is there any evidence other than the manager's vague statement of any policy of defendant's board of directors to prohibit speculation. On the contrary the following testimony by plaintiff stands uncontradicted, the one of the parties mentioned testified twice thereafter.

"Q. Now, Mr. Hanish, before you left New York had you received any instructions from the Board of Directors as to speculative purchases?

A. It had been discussed very broadly in New York between Mr. Love, Mr. Brenneman and myself, particularly in connection with the goat skin and his business, and the policy they adopted was that we ought to go ahead at the opening of the season and make purchases in anticipation of our clients' requirements at home, for we had taken care to canvass these clients and their attitude towards us for some months previous.

Q. Did you receive any definite instructions from Fearon and Daniel in New York, prior to your departure for China, regarding the speculative purchases?

A. I did not; on the contrary speculation was recommended."

That the manager himself knew that this particular purchase was not "contrary to the policy of the board of directors" would appear from his own testimony where, after admitting that he had made speculative purchases and shipped them to Europe, he was asked:

"Q. Now, in this telegram, these telegraphic instructions, is there anything allowing you to make speculative purchases for European markets any more than America?

A. The instructions did not apply to European business, and I assume full responsibility for any purchases I made.

Q. If you assume responsibility, what responsibility has Mr. Hanish under his contract?

A. I am holding him to his responsibility.

Q. Who is holding you to yours?

A. Nobody.

Q. Whereas this purchase of albumen that you object to so seriously, was that bought for America? That stuff was shipped to Europe, wasn't it?

A. Yes."

III

It is next urged that plaintiff practiced deception toward defendant and in his letter of dismissal (Ex. 1) the manager states as his fourth ground

"Misrepresentation of the facts concerning the cost of these Goatskins to New York office."

It appears that on November 15, 1919, a cable (Ex. 9) was sent without objection to the home office reporting the purchase of goatskins at $2.85 per pound. Plaintiff testifies that the hide and skin expert estimated the cost at $2.80 and that

"I added five cents, or about two percent on this price for a precautionary matter, because the seconds might possibly shrink more or less, in trimming and so on, than estimated in the calculations."

After "the cargo was inspected, sorted, cleaned and dried," he says, the expert and another

"Came to me and said, 'Those skins are going to come out cheaper,' and we cabled to New York rectifying Exhibit '9', stating that the seconds now would cost us 2.65; in the final, when the whole lot had been cleaned up, it appeared that these seconds only did cost us 2.50."

The home office replied expressing surprise at the purchase but stating that nearly the whole lot could have been sold "at between $2.85 and $2.95 per pound" and it appears that a portion of it was sold at a small profit while the market price at the time was quoted as high as $3.05. It is clear that the figures cabled were incorrect but the error of the other employes was greater than plaintiff's and we find nothing sufficient to show that any of it was intentional or made with a deceitful purpose. At any rate the undisputed fact that plaintiff corrected the mistake by cable to the home office would seem to relieve him of the charge of any intentional "misrepresentation of the facts concerning these goatskins."

Plaintiff may have been overcautious but that was certainly less detrimental to defendant than to have quoted a price too low, and it is admitted that the extra 2 percent which he added were sometimes improperly omitted. In fact they were omitted from the buffalo hide purchase and their inclusion at plaintiff's instance affords the main basis for the manager's charge (Ex. 1) of "instructions given members of the staff to make up fake calculations of cost to deceive me." The "fake calculations" consisted in adding such items as "overhead expense, sinking fund and guarantee against shrinkage." Yet these are precisely the items which the manager himself and his principal witness declare are customarily included in the cost price. And these with a small addition for "consular fees, bill brokerage and telegrams" (naturally an uncertain amount) constitute the only alleged "inflations." Indeed it seems that one customary item—insurance—was actually omitted.

The manager concedes that the company suffered no loss from any of these calculations and we do not think that his charge that they were made in order to deceive him is established in the face of plaintiff's denial and explanation.

It is finally claimed that plaintiff practiced deceit by cabling on January 17, 1920,

"With firm order in hand we can probably buy 11,000 pieces special Hankow untanned goatskins at 10-5 for 1 sts." (Ex. 33).

It is urged that more than that amount of goatskins had already been purchased. The cable implies nothing to the contrary. It purports to convey no other information than the price at which "we can probably buy" that amount and the home office replied under date of January 23, (Ex. 35) "Do not buy at present." Two of defendant's witnesses, indeed, express the opinion that plaintiff's cable referred to goods already purchased; but their reasons appear far from convincing. One of them bases his opinion on the alleged

"fact that the description given in the telegram Exhibit 33 corresponds identically with the description given on the weight noto of the goods which is dated January 5. Those goods were offered under date of January 17 stating that with firm order in hand we could probably buy. It does not quote the price."

But as we have just seen it does quote the price as 10-5 and plaintiff's cable speaks of "11,000 pieces special Hankow untanned goatskins" while the "weight note" (Ex. 34) mentioned by the witness refers to "unt'd goatskins, 11,377 pieces." Surely these two descriptions do not "correspond identically."

The reason given by defendant's other witness is that he made the calculation (Ex. 39) for the weight note (Ex. 34); but how that shows that plaintiff's cable (Ex. 33) refers to the latter is not explained. And it is noteworthy that not even the manager, in his nineteen grounds of dismissal, suggests that plaintiff practiced any deceit when he sent this cable six months before. Plaintiff denies that he ever represented that he could buy cargo which he had in stock and declares that his cable of January 17, 1920 and the others "have no relation." We do not think his testimony overcome by defendant's showing. It has the burden of proof and charges of fraud, especially, must be clearly established.

IV

Great stress is laid upon plaintiff's use of profanity. That is a foolish and offensive habit and, to say the least, plaintiff as well as his associates would have been much better off without it. But one who, as here, urges it as one of the chief grounds for depriving another of his contractual rights, must show good faith.

The manager did not mention profanity in his letter of dismissal and in fact admits that he never heard plaintiff use it. Indeed it was not mentioned until the filing of the answer where it is alleged in connection with the staff alone and evidence relating to outsiders is inadmissible under the pleadings. But plaintiff was no stronger to defendant and his habits in this regard must have been well known to it. For nearly five years he had been in its employ and its secretary who drew the contract was plaintiff's friend. (p. 63; Ex. 13). Plaintiff was then a man past 32. His habits were formed and that now under consideration is well known to be one not suddenly acquired or broken. Yet knowing that he was addicted to profanity defendant re-employed him under an elaborate contract which mentioned other habits. It required plaintiff e.g., to "be temperate in all things, especially in the use of intoxicating liquors;" but it said nothing about swearing.

Again it is admitted that other local employes of defendant were addicted to the same habit. One of defendant's principal witnesses testified:

"I cannot say that at some time everybody in the office did not use profane language." (p. 259. Cf. p. 258).

Even the manager, when asked whether he did not curse and swear would say no more than "Not all the time. I don't all the time. . . . I very seldom curse." Yet it is not claimed that any of them was ever discharged or reprimanded for this or that the question was ever raised as to any one except plaintiff.

In effect, therefore, its counsel's argument makes defendant say to plaintiff: "We knew of your swearing habit when we employed you as we know that other employes have it; but we have made no effort to check or correct it. Now that you have sued us, however, we shall make this one of our chief defenses." Of course, under such circumstances the objection is waived.

Finally it is urged that blasphemy is a crime in this jurisdiction; but blasphemy "is the malicious reviling of God or religion" and none of the utterances attributed to plaintiff amounted to that. Besides if defendant believed that one of its employes was committing a crime it should have been brought promptly to the attention of the prosecuting authorities.

In his letter of dismissal the manager charges plaintiff with

"12—Undermining my authority in general.

19—General antagonism to me and my policies resulting in the lack of co-operation in the management of the business and disaffection throughout the organisation including New York which cannot be tolerated any longer."

And in the answer, sworn to by the manager himself who states that he has read it and knows the contents, it is alleged

"That the plaintiff, together and in conjunction with other persons conspired to oust and do away with W.A.B. Nichols as general manager and President of said defendant company, and further conspired with others to wreck, destroy and demolish the business of said defendant for his own interest."

The manager was thrice on the stand as a witness but he gave no competent testimony in support of these charges. Plaintiff, on the other hand, testified

"I have never attempted to oust Mr. Nichols as general manager.

Q—Have you ever tried to induce any official of Fearon, Daniel and Company to oust Mr. Nicholas.

A. No; I have not."

One witness who confessed to "a feeling of resentment against" plaintiff, testified that he said to the compradore in connection with the dispute over the settlement of exchange

"'Mr. Nichols is the guy that is holding us up, and we might just as well close up shop if this is the way he is going to run the business.' I don't say those are his exact words, but words to that effect."

But this remark must be interpreted in the light of a dispute then pending between plaintiff and the manager and which the former describes as follows:

"I maintain that I was entitled, under the terms and conditions of my contract—to settle my own exchange, and I refer here to paragraph 3— . . And I had from the very outset argument with Mr. Nichols on this point. His views were to the contrary that he was to settle exchange, and that I had to take the rate of the day."

Plaintiff's remark first above quoted seems to have been an incident of this dispute. It certainly falls far short of showing conspiracy or "general antagonism" toward the manager. It was the latter, according to plaintiff who was undermining authority. Plaintiff testifies:

"There was a frame-up going on in this office which Mr. Nichols had nursed for months. . . I know that the staff was antagonised on the quiet by Mr. Nichols. What about the meetings at his house in the evening with certain members of the staff present? . . I knew that Mr. Nichols did not want me there.

The cause of this unfortunate condition, according to plaintiff, is found in the previous troubles of the company and certainly color to that claim is given by the manager's letter of Dec. 28, 1919, already mentioned in which he tells plaintiff:

"The worst thing I have to complain about are your views expressed to Demetz of the Belgium Bank while I was away. He tells me you are not altogether in accord with the Fearons being kicked out and that the Tientsin office was making money while they were there and that it was losing money now and that the Shanghai office was also losing money. . . It seems to me both you and Love are determined to prove that all your own criticisms and Fearons accusations against me during these past few years are well founded and if that is your chief object in coming here as assistant general manager I would like to know it at once for I am not going to stand for any more double-crossing tactics from anybody in this whole outfit and the sooner you appreciate it the better." (Ex. 13).

The following testimony of plaintiff throws further light on this:

"Q—You know Mr. Love?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Who is Mr. Love?

A—Mr. Love is the secretary of Fearon, Brown Company, and at the same time secretary of Fearon, Daniel and Company.

Q—And, incidentally, a brother-in-law of Mr. Nichols?

A—Yes, sir.

Q—Now, you have heard what Mr. Brenneman said about a conversation between you and Mr. Love; and I think he said he was present. He said that you and Mr. Love were jealous of the great success that Mr. Nichols had made in Shanghai, and that you had to take measures to curtail it, or words to that effect. Did you have any such conversation?

A—I don't recall such conversation. There has not been any such conversation to my knowledge.

Q—Did you have any conversation with Mr. Love about coming to Shanghai?

A—Yes, we had such conversation, and it was suggested

Health, Beauty And The Home

Food in Moulds

By Mrs. Christine Frederick,
The Distinguished Authority on Household Efficiency.

IF there is one thing that the Summer service of food demands it is charm and neatness of arrangement. In Winter our appetites are so keen that we may not notice the manner of serving as long as our hunger is appeased. But the warm weather brings a more fastidious, a more discriminating taste, and we are all influenced more by the way food looks.

Have you ever looked almost with disgust at the shapeless mass which a rice or other pudding makes when served in any ordinary dish? Then have you ever seen a similar pudding separated into portions, each in an individual glass, china or other saucer? Have you not noticed how much more agreeable it appears and how much more you feel like eating it?

There is certainly much to be said in favor of the individual service, particularly for salads, desserts and other Summer foods. The separate portion offers a much wider field for decorating and garnishing and the tempting of the frequently jaded appetite.

No one piece of equipment is of greater help to an attractive service of food than the mould or shaped dish. The housekeeper who does not know and use a variety of moulds is missing one of the most effective means of making her food service pleasing. There are numerous large moulds, holding from a pint to two quarts, which come in a variety of shapes—oval, round, ring, etc. For cornstarch, gelatine and other desserts these are exactly suited for giving what otherwise would be a solid, heavy mass, a lighter, more attractive form. Many of the glass dishes generally used for baking are equally good for the moulding of these cold dishes. Small glass units, such as the custard cups and the ramequins, are particularly suited for such use.

Other large moulds of china may be ornamented with a figure or other embossing, which will give a raised effect to the dish. Such moulds are particularly suited to gelatine and the various aspic jellies of cold meat, which should be widely used by the housewife in Summer.

For example, by taking small leftovers of any meat, chopping fine, covering with a strong soup stock or canned bouillon, pouring into a mould and chilling she will have a most attractive and refreshing supper dish at little expense. Think how much more appetizing such a cold moulded dish, garnished with lettuce and cold vegetables, is than the same meat served in a hot, greasy stew!

Tin moulds are used for gelatine desserts, for charlotte russe and other dainty cold dishes. They come in all sorts of shapes. The flat, shallow moulds like patty pans are best for baking, but the deeper ones are more useful for jelly and cold desserts.

Nothing delights children more than food served in small and moulded portions. A child may often refuse to eat a nourishing pudding because he does not like its appearance, but if the same pudding is served in moulded form, like a "castle" or "tower" or in some other fancy shape which appeals to his imagination and topped with a cherry or a "rose" of whipped cream, he will surely eat it. As a mother of four I have proved over and over again that it is decidedly necessary to entice the imagination of children who so often are capricious and whimsical in their eating.

Not until I told my little girl of six the story of the goose that laid the golden egg, and moulded a neat little pat of spinach on which to lay the golden egg, could I induce her to eat egg. The children delight at the slightest efforts at garnishing and making food pretty, and it is possible to make them relish very plain foods if they are only appealing in their appearance.

The melon mould, shaped like the half of a cantaloupe, has many uses. It is excellent for steaming all kinds of puddings and permits removing them with ease. It is equally good for making ice cream and other frozen desserts of the "mousse" variety.

The housekeeper who is devoted to pies, cakes and puddings should attempt more art of the frozen desserts. They are so easily and quickly made and so much more healthful. It takes only about twenty minutes to prepare a delicious frozen cream, there is no expenditure of fuel, and such a cold dish is much better for us in warm weather.

Another mould which is used in the author's house very frequently is the inner ring-mould holding a quart. This looks like a tube cake pan, only it has a tight-fitting cover. Cooked rice may be packed into the ring and placed in the oven to brown and shape. Any left-over meat, particularly ham, may be used, with a cream sauce as the centre of this ring of rice. In this way the simplest materials may be given all the attractiveness of elaborate dishes.

These ring moulds do equally well for the baking of light cakes to be used in a shortcake or in other ways for Summer desserts. A light sponge cake baked in one of them is delicious, with a centre of strawberries, cream or custard.

In using a mould be sure that it is clean and dip it in cold water immediately before you pour in any hot material. This is to chill the food and prevent its sticking to the mould. To unmould run the edge of a very thin knife or, preferably, a flexible spatula around the edges, then wrap with a hot cloth. Be sure the platter or dish is exactly placed under the mould before attempting to empty it. There is also a secret in cooking the material to just the right consistency, so that it will be neither too stiff nor too wobbly.

In chilling any mould finely chopped ice and salt are necessary, or it can be placed in a refrigerator over night. Ice cream and other frozen desserts should be packed in ice and salt and left there several hours.

A trip to the house-furnishing stores will repay any housewife, just to see the wide assortment of shapes and materials of moulds. A study of them will suggest an endless variety of ways of making the service of food more attractive, particularly in the hot weather months.

About Freckles

By Lina Cavalieri,
The Most Famous Living Beauty.

NOW that the freckle season is upon us again it behooves the woman or girl whose skin is prone to acquire such blemishes to adopt some method of preventing or curing them. Freckles are a mark of distinction in one way, because they are an indication that the owner of them possesses a skin of extreme and unusual delicacy. But nobody wants freckles!

In the first place, these light or dark brown spots are too much of a disfigurement or blot on an otherwise fair skin, and in the second place, they are too difficult to remove. And the problem of their removal is all the more formidable because anything that will take them off will only make the skin that much more susceptible.

That is one reason why prevention is so much easier than cure. Had you begun earlier in the season and worn thick chiffon veils to keep out the sunlight, especially in the middle of the day, or else have prepared the skin to withstand the sun's rays by a liberal coating of cold cream and powder, then you would not gaze at your reflection so despairingly to-day.

However, whether you secured your unwelcome crop of freckles at the seashore or burned your skin to a copper-hued tan in the mountains there are various remedies that will go far to lighten those blemishes and make your skin once more presentable for the coming entertainments and functions of the Winter months.

The frequent use of buttermilk as a wash is highly recommended for the removal of freckles because it has both softening and bleaching qualities. Fresh-grated horseradish added to a glass of buttermilk and applied nightly before retiring adds potency to the remedy. A tablespoonful of the horseradish will be sufficient. Allow to stand over night, then strain and apply liberally, leaving it to dry on. Another simple bleach that has been used with success by many is made up of one ounce of glycerine, half an ounce of rosewater and two ounces of lactic acid.

An astringent lotion that can be used to fade the lighter freckles is prepared as follows: Powdered borax, 2½ grams; spirits of camphor, 5 grams; rosewater, 50 grams, and 2½ grams of tincture of benzoin.

Once after motoring through the country for a week I saw some horrid-looking spots on my nose—light yellow, obtrusive—resembling the dots with which a turkey egg is flecked. A friend sent me this prescription, which I have since used many times, always with benefit: Solution of ammonia, 1 ounce; bay rum, 1 ounce; powdered borax, 1 ounce; glycerine, ½ ounce. Still another formula for tan and freckles is this, which I am told has attained great popularity: Ammonium chloride, 1 dram; distilled water, 4 ounces.

Here is another lotion which I have used at the end of the Summer with much benefit to my complexion. I have found it both cooling and healing: Bitter almond water, 6 ounces; orange flower water, 4 ounces; glycerine, 2 ounces; boracic acid, 1 dram. And though you may accuse me of repetition I would like to give you still another simple remedy that is also most excellent for sunburn: Sweet milk, one teacupful; juice of one lemon. Squeeze the juice of the lemon into the milk and let it stand in a cool place until it curdles. On retiring apply the mixture to the face with a silk sponge or a bit of cotton.

During the Summer the hands and arms often suffer as much, if not more, than the face from the effects of the sun's burning rays. Here is a lotion that will cool them and quickly reduce their unlovely redness: Lemon juice, 1 ounce; strained honey, 1 ounce; cologne, 1 ounce.

If the sunburn did not result in redness, but in plain, homely freckles, which can be far homelier and uglier on the arms than anywhere else, then apply the following with a small sponge or a bit of absorbent cotton or a camel's hair brush: Powdered borax, ½ dram; sugar, ½ dram; lemon juice, 1 ounce. Here is still another remedy, one of the best, I think, to remove persistent and conspicuous freckles wherever they are found: Sulphocarbolate of soda, 50 grains; glycerine, 2 ounces; rosewater, 1 ounce; alcohol, 1 ounce.

A medical adviser tells me that none of the above can possibly take off these blemishes like his favorite remedy, which is stronger than anything I have given yet, but it is perfectly safe to use, provided its application is left off for a few days if the skin shows signs of being too deeply irritated: Bichloride of mercury, 6 grains; alcohol, 1 ounce; glycerine, 2 ounces, and oil of lavender, 10 drops.

At the risk of being old-fashioned I want to tell you about a simple remedy that my grandmother used when nothing else was available. Now that short sleeves are so popular there can be no excuse for tanned or freckled arms to detract from one's appearance. Mix half a cupful of cornmeal with a glass of sweet milk until it attains the consistency of mush and allow this to sour. Apply at night, and in a matter of two or three weeks of this treatment your arms will once more be one of your most attractive and lovely assets.

Beauty Secrets

I AM greatly distressed by "goose flesh" on my arms. It is red and rough and makes me so unhappy. What can I do?—F. E. B.

The constant use of warm soapy water and the daily friction of a firm flesh brush will go far to overcome this trouble. Dip the brush in the soapy water and scrub the skin until it glows. Afterward rinse in warm and then in cold water until all traces of the soap are removed and dry thoroughly. Oftentimes the tendency to "goose flesh" occurs because the skin is not dried thoroughly or is allowed to get cold.

I AM much distressed by the way the skin around my eyes is wrinkled and flabby, because it makes me look so dissipated. Will you suggest a remedy for this?—MRS. C. W.

Anything that effects the nervous system unfavorably is a menace to the appearance of the eye. Too much reading, writing or sewing under a flickering or a dim light also has a bad effect. But the most serious danger, I think, lies in lack of sufficient sleep. The eyes may be massaged upon retiring with the utmost gentleness above and below, using any good cream. Never massage them longer than four or five minutes, because too much massage will tire the delicate muscles and cause them to sag.

JUST because I tried to lighten my hair with peroxide, borax and ammonia I find it is coming in gray behind my ears and on top of my head, although I am only twenty. Can I stop this?—GRACE.

Do not be discouraged. What you have done is to take out all the natural oil. This must be restored by nightly massage and the frequent applications of tonics which will help bring about a more normal condition of the scalp. Remember, we raise a new crop of hair every three years and hereditary factors are all in your favor. Here is a tonic that is highly recommended for this trouble,

Glycerine	2 ounces
Alcohol	1 pint
Sulphate of quinine	1 dram
Oil of cloves	½ dram
Oil of lemon	4 ounces
Oil of bergamot	1 ounce

FOR a very special reason I am anxious to make my hands and fingers more plump as quickly as possible. Will massage help?—M. E.

Plumpness and shapeliness of the hands can be acquired by a faithful daily massage with a little pure olive oil. The pomade given below is also excellent for this purpose and will keep the skin smooth and white:

Cocoa butter	1 ounce
Oil of sweet almonds	1 ounce
Oxide of zinc	1 dram
Borax	1 dram
Oil of bergamot	6 drops

I AM one of those unfortunate women with enlarged pores. Is there any help for me?—E. M. C.

The cure is really a comparatively simple matter, although it may take considerable time. First stop using powder for a while; then scrub the face thoroughly with tincture of green soap and hot water. Now wash the face with a bland soap, preferably of vegetable oils, and rinse with tepid water. Next "iron" all the pores into a state of contraction with a small-sized piece of ice. Daily applications of witch hazel will help keep the pores contracted. Keep the pores clean by refraining from further blocking their orifices and you have a fighting chance to regain your former smooth delicacy of skin structure.

I HAVE an awful looking neck and my back is covered with moth patches. Is there anything that will remove them without bringing something worse in their place?—M. L.

Massage your neck at night with a good skin food and in the morning apply an astringent lotion to keep the skin firm. Here is a good flesh-building cream:

Lanolin	10 grams
Oil of almonds	100 grams
Rosewater	100 grams
White wax	5 grams
Spermaceti	5 grams
Oil of rose geranium	5 drops

Moth patches are somewhat like freckles, save that the pigmentation is deeper and more difficult to reach. The daily use of peroxide of hydrogen will help to lighten them.

Just What Makes Us Nervous

IN studying the nature of "nervousness," says Dr. Robert S. Carroll in his new book "The Mastery of Nervousness," we must dispel the common error that it is a disorder of the nerves.

The nerves are mere insensate cords, carrying impressions to and from the brain. All of man's infinite responses take place, not in his nerves, but in his central nervous system. Mind, not nerves, is at fault in what we call "nervousness." Nervous health is a mental state, not a physical condition. We shall find that physical disturbances play a large part in the production of nervousness; we shall also find that normal reason and will can face extremes of physical suffering without surrender.

Many of the mistaken ideas connected with nervousness are easily displaced when we consider the intimate relation of mind and body. The body's organs are constantly influenced by the mind through what is called the sympathetic nervous system. The relation between mind and body is so active and the nervous system so able to record an infinite variety of sensations that the sufferer finds dire confusion in distinguishing nervous discomforts from those produced by mechanical or chemical injuries to the tissues or organs of his body.

When it is realized that there is a nervous counterpart for every organic disease—that no form of physical damage exists which is not imitated and reproduced by sensations practically identical with those accompanying the organic disease, it is easy to understand the immense variety of nervous symptoms and the practically unlimited manifestations of nervous discomfort.

To repeat, nervousness is a disease of numberless possible expressions. There is no form of illness, pain, disease, practically no alteration in circulation, no disturbance in the various processes of digestion, no disease of the respiratory organs—indeed, no defective bodily function—which a highly wrought, disordered nervous system may not imitate. Sensations as varied as the scale of human capacity for feeling, sensations apparently recording disturbances in a dozen organs, may one and all be but expressions of an overresponsive brain.

With this conception from the almost hopeless tangle of nervous sensations emerges the comforting truth, that when the central nervous system is restored to normal all will be well. The brain, itself insensible, reflects its discomforts to a thousand nooks of the body, and its ill mind blames every one of its co-workers with the wrongdoing.

Nervousness, then, is truly a mental, not a physical, illness. It represents a high capacity for response to external and internal stimuli, with lack of selective and inhibitory control.

Household Hints

Keeping Books.

LEATHER-BOUND books should be kept where the air is hot and dry and circulates freely enough to prevent the natural oil of the leather drying out too rapidly.

For a Round Table.

FOR a round table it is better to choose a cloth with a centre with a circular design than a circular cloth, for the edges of the latter almost invariably stretch in laundering.

Health Maxims

HEALTH is easier kept than regained.

THE season of closed windows is followed by the season of open graves.

A DECAYED tooth is far more dangerous to the health than a fly in the soup. Visit the dentist regularly. Keep the teeth clean.

BE thrifty in keeping your health. Unlike a dollar foolishly spent it cannot be easily replaced by future saving.

For Church or School Suppers

By Mary Lee Swann,

(Each Recipe Planned for Fifty People)

Delicious Waffles.

MIX and sift 4 quarts flour, 1½ tablespoons salt and 8 tablespoons baking powder. Beat 14 egg yolks; add 2 quarts thin cream and beat into flour. Fold in 14 stiffly beaten egg whites. Cook in hot greased waffle irons.

Frozen Fruit Salad.

MIX 1 can sliced peaches, 1 can sliced pears, 1 can thinly sliced pineapple, 1 can white cherries from which seeds have been removed, 1 dozen sliced bananas, 1 sliced orange and ½ grapefruit, shredded. Combine with 1 pint cream, beaten until stiff, and 1½ cups mayonnaise dressing. Freeze, using 2 parts ice and 1 part salt. Serve in crisp lettuce leaves.

Potato Salad.

COMBINE with 9 quarts thinly sliced or diced cold boiled potatoes 1 quart finely sliced celery (shredded diagonally across stalk). Add ¼ cup salt, ½ teaspoon paprika, 2 teaspoons pepper, 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion or onion juice, 2½ cups salad oil and 1¼ cups mild salad vinegar. Finely chopped pickles, red or green peppers, olives, pimentoes or sardines may be added to give variety. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with mayonnaise dressing. A tablespoon of piccalilli to each serving makes an acceptable addition.

Cream Dressing.

MIX ¼ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon mustard, 5 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons salt and a dash of pepper. Add 2 eggs and 5 egg yolks, well beaten. Add 3½ cups scalded milk, stirring constantly. Cook over hot water until thick, stirring constantly to prevent lumping. Add ¼ cup butter, remove from fire and add ¾ cup mild salad vinegar. Mix well. If mixture should curdle add a few drops of cream or milk and beat with a Dover beater until smooth. Chill and fold in 1½ cups cream beaten until stiff.

Baking Powder Biscuits.

MIX and sift 3 quarts flour with 2 tablespoons salt and 8 tablespoons baking powder. Work in 1 cup shortening with tips of fingers. Add 4½ quarts rich milk and mix well. Turn out on floured board, pat and roll out about ¾ inch thick. Cut out, place on slightly greased baking sheets and bake about 15 minutes in hot oven.

Fruit Salad.

CUT 3 dozen bananas in thin slices. Remove seeds from 2 cans white cherries and cut cherries in halves or quarters. Peel and slice 2 dozen oranges and dice 2 cans of Hawaiian pineapple. Combine the fruits, moisten with French dressing and arrange in nests of crisp lettuce leaves. Place 1 tablespoon of cream dressing on each serving. If the salad is served at Christmas time garnish with maraschino cherries.

Grape Catsup.

PICK over and wash Concord grapes and cook 6 quarts of them until soft. Press through sieve and add 4 pounds light-brown sugar, 1 quart mild vinegar, 4 tablespoon cloves, 3 tablespoons allspice, 4 tablespoons cinnamon, 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper and ¼ cup salt. The spices may be tied in a cheesecloth bag so that they may be removed from catsup. Cook until thick and seal in sterilized bottles.

Veal Loaf.

PASS 10½ pounds lean veal and 1 pound salt pork or bacon through the meat chopper. Roll 1½ dozen crackers or 8 or 10 slices of stale bread and add the fine crumbs to the chopped meat. Add ¾ cup top milk, 2 tablespoons onion juice, 4 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons salt, 1 teaspoon pepper and 1 teaspoon sage. Mix well, pack into brick-shaped pans, bake slowly about 3 hours, basting frequently with bacon or beef drippings. When cold cut in thin slices and serve with grape catsup.

Thomas Freeman Winner In June Pistol Competition; Capt. Fisher Gets Gold Medal

Fifteen Entrants Make Over 80 Percent In All-Comers' Championship Held At Revolver Club; Freeman's Score Is 279

The Shanghai allcomers .45 cal. revolver and pistol championship competition and the Shanghai naval .45 cal. revolver and pistol championship competition closed June 30.

The shoot was held under the direction of the Shanghai Miniature Rifle and Revolver Club.

In the allcomers competition the gold bar was won by Mr. Thomas Freeman (Championship Class), Instructor of the Revolver Club and the gold medal won by Capt. C. F. Fisher, Mercantile Marine who will be transferred to the championship class in future .45 cal. championship competitions. The silver medals were won by Mr. J. H. Farquharson and Mr. R. F. Block. The naval championship gold medal was won by Mr. R. Dawson, H. M. S. "Woodlark," Silver medals by Mr. T. Pickles (Late H. M. S. Kinsha) and Lieut. R. R. Beauchamp, H. M. S. "Hawkins." Special note to be made of the extra fine shooting done in these difficult competitions, no less than 15 competitors made over 80 percent, the conditions of both competitions were 10 shots at 15 yards, 10 shots at 20 yards and 10 shots at 25 yards, either hand. Time limit 1 hour. Targets with 2 inches inner and 4 inches outer bullseye used—H. P. S. 300.

In The U.S. Court For China

that I should proceed out here with a view to taking over a certain important branch of the business which Mr. Nichols had previously sadly mismanaged."

And this appears to be the main support of the manager's charge of conspiracy—a charge which made his brother-in-law and the secretary of his company the chief conspirator. Entertaining such a suspicion it would appear inevitable that the manager should seek to terminate the contract made by said secretary, though for the company, with plaintiff who testifies

"The co-operation on behalf of the staff was very bad from the very outset."

And the manager corroborates this by answering to the question

"You also say there was a feeling of general hatred against Mr. Hanish in the office? When did you first observe this feeling of general hatred?

A. From the time that he arrived, at the beginning."

But how could the staff have a feeling of "general hatred" against one whom they had never seen unless they had been prejudiced against him in advance?

The manager claims, indeed, that plaintiff so antagonised the staff as to cause several threatened and two actual resignations. Only one witness claims to have left defendant's employ on plaintiff's account and he discloses other reasons—such as the stopping of overdrafts and stricter requirements in work—than plaintiff's manners. But plaintiff also testifies that this employe's "work was away behind, records incomplete" and that other employes, who testified against plaintiff, said that the employe in question was 'an undesirable unit of the staff."

But if plaintiff had caused resignations in his department it would have constituted no breach of his contract. For that instrument gave him "full power to engage and discharge any and all assistants."

VI

The burden rests upon defendant to prove that it was justified in discharging plaintiff, particularly as in the contract it reserved but one ground of discharge and it is not, and could not be, invoked here. Upon a review of the whole evidence we are obliged to find that defendant has not met that burden and we must correspondingly find that plaintiff is entitled to recover.

His action is for the wrongful termination of his contract (as distinguished from a mere action for salary) and his measure of damages is "the amount he would have received if the contract had been kept." Now plaintiff, by giving the proper notice, was entitled to continue until September 1, 1924 or a period of four years and one month after his dismissal. And the salary for that period would amount to Tls. 49,000. Of course this amount would be subject to deductions for any earnings by plaintiff from other sources. But the burden was upon defendant to prove such earnings, and it made no attempt to do so. Defendant was also entitled to return passage for himself and family which he states and it is not disputed, would cost Tls. 1,500, making a total of Tls. 50,500.

The contract further provides:

"In addition to the said salary, it is mutually agreed that Mr. Hanish shall receive ten (10%) percent of the net profits derived annually from the aforementioned 'Export Department' (covering both the exports from the Shanghai and Hankow offices). Such net profit shall be the absolute net gain to the 'Department' after every and all expenses properly connected therewith have been deducted, including such interest in the 'sub-departments' as may now or be hereafter payable to individuals under Mr. Hanish; also after having deducted the interest in profits of the export branch of the Hankow Office payable to the Manager of said Branch.

There shall be a certain sum agreed upon to cover annual overhead against the said 'Department,' which amount will be determined between Mr. Hanish and Mr. Nichols as soon after Mr. Hanish's arrival at Shanghai as may be found possible to do.

Fearon, Daniel and Co., Inc. agrees to keep complete and accurate account of the Shanghai and Hankow export business, and it is understood and agreed that Mr. Hanish shall, at all times convenient and proper, have the privilege of inspecting such records. Fearon, Daniel and Co., Inc. agrees to render to Mr. Hanish a statement of the business of his Department at the expiration of each year, or, as soon after the expiration of each annual period as may be found possible, but in no event shall such statement, together with a check for his share of the profit, be delayed longer than two (2) months from the termination of each annual period."

Plaintiff testifies on this point:

"I have approximated that, about Taels 15,000.00 for the balance of the life of the contract, and what is paid me for the previous period for which no statement has been rendered me when there should have been.

"I have taken into consideration the basis of earnings which I might have with the Company for four years past; four years, nine months. While in New York with them we showed profits there of between thirty and forty thousand dollars per annum, while there I would have been interested in profits of both Shanghai and Hankow."

In other words plaintiff estimated the "net profits" for his whole period on the basis of those realised in previous years. But there is no certainty that the future profits will be the same nor even that there will be any. And the approved rule is that

"anticipated profits cannot be recovered where they are dependent upon uncertain and changing conditions, such as market fluctuations, or the chances of business, or where there is no evidence from which they may be intelligently estimated."

As was said by an eminent Federal Judge:

"Expected profits are, in their nature, contingent upon many changing circumstances, uncertain and remote at best. They can be recovered only when they are made reasonably certain by the proof of actual facts which present data for a rational estimate of their amount. The speculations and conjectures of witnesses who know no facts from which a reasonably accurate estimate can be made form no better basis for a judgment than the conjectures of the jury without facts."

But while we could not render judgment as to this branch of the case upon plaintiff's testimony he is clearly entitled to an accounting not only as to the expired portion of his contract but also as each future year accrues.

The answer prays for the return of certain condition sheets or for a judgment for their value but plaintiff testifies that these "were my own property" and though the manager testified subsequently he did not deny plaintiff's claim.

It is accordingly considered and adjudged that defendent take nothing by its answer, but plaintiff's motion to strike on page 219 of the transcript is sustained as to all except the first sentence of the answer in question and all exhibits offered by defendant and not heretofore received are admitted. But defendant's motion to strike on page 225 of the transcript is overruled; and in accordance with the findings recited above it is further considered and adjudged that plaintiff have and recover from defendant the sum of Shanghai Tls. 50,500, together with his costs and that defendant render an accounting, in accordance with its contract, of the income of its export department covering the Shanghai and Hankow offices.

Useful Hints for Dark Days

Worry never brought any good to anybody. Still, you say, "I don't worry because I want to; it is because I can't help it": or, "I worry because I have so much to worry about."

We all have our troubles, and worry, of course, makes matters worse. The patient generally recognises this fact without being influenced in any way by it.

The doctor who could meet this nervous condition and cure it would be the most popular man alive. He cannot do it, however, because the form of nervous exhaustion known as neurasthenia, of which worry is a characteristic symptom, must be cured to a large extent by the patient.

But as the nerves depend upon the blood for nourishment, it naturally follows that by building up and reinvigorating the blood the patient is tackling the actual root of the trouble. And that is why Dr. Williams' pink pills have proved so successful in cases of neurasthenia and nervous debility, for they supply the pure rich blood necessary to feed the nerves.

You should write today for the book "The Nerves and Their Needs," and read the chapter on neurasthenia. Many people have written, "This describes my case exactly; I am trying the treatment and being benefited." A copy will be sent free if you address a post card to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Dr. Williams' pills are a true nerve tonic particularly suitable for nervous, neurasthenic people. Most dealers sell them, or direct and post free at $1.50 per bottle, $8 for 6 bottles, from the above address.

KINGMAN & BROS.
How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precautions must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dentaperiostitis esteo-periostitis, necrose of the jaw, etc., may arise During the process of ingestion there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
2) Filing with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

Unsolicited Testimony!

The Manager, 7th August, 1920.
Electricity Department,
Shanghai Municipal Council

DEAR SIR,

Due to the fact that we are FAIL TO MAKE PROFIT by using a engine, which by its SLOWNESS in work, EXPENSIVE in charges and also DIRTY and NOISY. The engine we are now using is 12-h. p. Having learned that an ELECTRIC MOTOR is a HASTY and ENERGETIC worker, it works QUIETLY, expends ECONOMICALLY, locates only a SMALL SPACE, and is EASY TO OPERATE. By the above several GOODNESS we would like to make a change and it might satisfy us when taking into use. Hope you will send us one for our benefit at your earliest convenience.

Very truly yours,

The original of the above unique summary of the benefits of the adoption of electric drive may be inspected and information concerning the subject matter obtained by application to

Hongkong Share Market

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor of Hongkong write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, June 30:

We have again had an active market during the week under review, although Sterling stocks have been quiet, with little doing, owing to a "sticky" exchange.

The Shanghai Market has been steady with good business doing on quotations.

Rubber remains unchanged.

Hongkong Banks:—Are quiet with sellers at $737½ ex rights. New shares could be obtained at $140 premium and possibly a little less.

Cantons:—Are wanted at $402½ and more would be paid.

Unions:—Are quiet with sellers at $240.

Hongkong Fires:—Could be placed at $317½.

Hongkong Docks:—Changed hands at $213 to $213½ and close quiet at the quotation.

Deferred Indos:—Keep steady at $275 London Register ex dividend, and $270 Hongkong Register, with few, if any, shares offering.

China Sugars:—Have been done at $200 and at $200½ and close quiet.

Coments:—Have been the medium of fair business and close with buyers at $17.30.

Hongkong Lands:—Have had a sensational rise during the week owing to the sales of property, and have been done at $216 Cash and $220 August, closing with Sales at $215.

Shanghai Docks:—Have risen to Tls. 159 cash, at which price shares have changed hands.

Hongkong Electrics:—Have declined to a buying rate of $23.

Humphreys:—Have advanced to $11, at which price a good many shares changed hands.

Shell Transports:—Have sellers at 115/—.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

July 6, 1921

Spot bar silver was up 1d. and forward 3/4d. in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 59¾ cents and the London-New York cross rate is 373⅛.

The official Sterling rate today was raised to 3/7, the Gold Dollar rate to 67, the Rupee rate to 282, the Franc rate to 835 and the Yen rate dropped to 71¼.

The market was on the easy side throughout the day, this being caused largely by the greatly improved financial position today as compared with yesterday.

In sharp contrast to the last few days there were no particularly keen sellers of exchange for near delivery. The very high cash premium that has been on force for some time was reduced to a nominal figure today.

At the opening business in Sterling was done at 3/8 for near delivery and in Gold Dollars at 69. At the close of the market, however, there were no sellers of Sterling at better than 3/7½ for July and 3/7¼ for August. There were Gold Dollar sellers at about 67¾ near and 67½ for forward.

China bought silver in London yesterday and while she may not continue to make further heavy purchases at the present level still both China and India are potential buyers at lower limits. While silver, therefore, may react somewhat from its present figures the silver market is not likely to show any real signs of weakness.

Clubs Or Rice For Hungry Coolies?

BY JOSEF W. HALL

THE rice situation is believed by some to be quietly growing more serious. These persons express the belief that the longer the expected outbreak is in the brewing, the harder it will be to quell.

The more optimistic are of the opinion that the crisis has passed and that the rice dealers' guild is already wavering before the firmness of the Municipal Council, the only thing still standing in the way of the resumption of normal sales being the inevitable face-saving compromise in which, these persons believe, the Council will meet the shopkeepers.

The only "outbreak" anticipated by even the most pessimistic is an attempt of hungry coolies whose hard-earned coppers will no longer buy the accustomed sustenance for themselves, their women and their children to provide themselves with substitute foods from shops selling provisions other than rice. Were these less desirable forms of food existent in sufficient quantity and cheap enough to be within the reach of the very poor, no looting of foodshops or mob-seizure of foodstocks would be feared. A Chinese will, by nature, go to the limit of endurance before attempting to relieve his suffering through violence.

With the right or wrong, expediency or inexpediency, practicality or impracticality of the Council's decision to place the rice shops of the Settlement under a licensing regulation and make them subject to police investigation, this article does not deal, neither does it make bold to approve or excuse the determination of the rice dealers to resist, through a passive but effective method, the scheme of the Council. The question which for the moment confronts Shanghai is not why such a situation should have been created, although many persons will agree that with a little tact it could have been avoided, but rather, now that Shanghai has the situation, how is Shanghai going to handle it.

If the past eight years' history has taught one lesson in governmentation it is that the weapon with which to control disorder on the part of the hungry is food, not the billy-club. It is the innocent and helpless coolie who is threatened with hunger as a result of the determination of the nine men who govern Shanghai and the counter-obstinacy of the rice dealers. It is this same coolie, entirely a third party to the dispute, who will receive the blows and stop the bullets of Shanghai's police force when he attempts, as any individual of any color or race would do under similar circumstances, to force his way into closed food shops to procure the meager physical sustenance which his pennies can no longer buy.

The Council has taken most elaborate precautions to meet with force, possible "rioting" on the part of people attempting to obtain food. It is fully equipped to drive back the hungry with blows. For five days the special constables have been in uniform ready to be thrown to any part of the city in automobiles. For two days Sikh guards have patrolled the streets with carbines.

But no official action looking toward the provision of rice for those turned away from the shops has been reported. "The Council," said a protagonist to the writer, "does not wish to give to the situation the importance which it would gain from the taking up of feeding measures on the part of the Municipality." Would the purchase of rice give the situation a more serious aspect than the calling out of the specials?

The police and constables do not relish the prospect of having to break the heads and bruise the limbs of men and women seeking food. One of them remarked that it was well enough for the Council to precipitate these crises, but that it was not so pleasant for the police who are compelled to take care of the "dirty work" which follows. The police are not all of the "Theirs not to question why—Theirs but to do and die" psychology, but they realise the necessity of crushing in its inception disorder of any sort whatever its cause, inasmuch as the lawless element of the port is always crouching in the shadows ready to take advantage of such a situation. We believe, however, that the police and special constables would rather distribute rice at market price than swing batons on the heads of the poor.

When the rice guild indirectly stated that it would not feed the populace, the diplomatic, the humane and the practical thing—the thing which would have broken the back of the opposition—would have been for the Council to quiet apprehension by announcing with the utmost publicity that if the dealers carried out their threat it would feed the people, and at usual prices. It should be no more difficult for the Council to prepare rice for public sale than for it to prepare ammunition for a riot. The argument that rice stocks are unprocurable does not hold water, for municipal officials have themselves made the statement that plentiful stocks are in existence in Shanghai today, and that their whereabouts are known to the Council. It would be better to confiscate them than to shoot hungry coolies.

"But," said its protagonist "the Council does not do things that way." Neither did misled governments in other places and at other times, to their eventual sorrow.

KINDS OF FOLK

There are four kinds of people in the world. The best are those who are of use to themselves and to other people; next come those who are of use only to other people; next those who are of use only to themselves; and last those who are of use to nobody.

Mr. Taft evidently belongs to the first class, if the following story is true.

He was introduced to an American cartoonist, and recognised him as a man who had presented his features on many occasions, and in many strange ways, to the readers of picture papers.

"So you're the man," exclaimed Taft, smiling, "who has been taking liberties with my face!"

"Guilty!" replied the cartoonist. "Your face is my fortune."

TWO CHAMPIONS

Los Angeles, where most of the moving pictures are made, has one of the loveliest climates in the world.

Nevertheless it does rain occasionally, and one pouring wet day Jack Dempsey, dining at the Picture Players' Club, left his umbrella in the stand with the notice pinned to it:

"This umbrella belongs to the champion heavyweight fighter of the world. He's coming back."

Presently Charlie Chaplin happened along and the umbrella disappeared, while a new notice was left to adorn the stand:

"Umbrella now in possession of world's champion Marathon runner. He ISN'T coming back."

OH! HOW I HATE

Oh! How I hate, on a fair summer's eve,
When streams of perspiration change the vest
Into a sponge, as I one drink request
That may awhile my quenchless thirst relieve,
The little cares that visit our Far Clime.
Oh! how I would, dispense with social codes—
Like savages, in Nature's beauty dress,
And cease from work and rest—just rest
And watch some others shoulder this life's loads,
Then I would love—not hate—the summertime.

BULLS—AND MORE BULLS

A towncouncillor in a Hampshire town was speaking against a suggested expenditure on local improvements. "Gentlemen," he exclaimed, "we will have nothing to do with it; it is but the thin end of a white elephant." (Presumably the trunk.)

During a very wet day, after a long spell of drought, a farmer was heard to say to a friend in Tullamore Fair: "An hour of this rain will do more in five minutes than a month of it would do at any other time."

Rather nice, too, is this announcement which appeared on a Midland Railway pamphlet: "7:20 p.m. Fenchurch Street to Shoeburyness will make additional stops at East Ham, Barking, Hornchurch and Upminster. The rear portion will not run."

A young man was giving a graphic account of a narrow escape he had had from an enraged bull. "I seized him by the tail," he exclaimed, "and there I was. I was afraid to hold on, and I dared not let go."

"Between the horns of a dilemna as it were;" ventured a young lady listener.

"No," replied the young man seriously. "It wasn't between the horns at all; and, besides, he wasn't a dilemna—he was a Jersey."

Palestine Reborn

An Eyewitness' View Of The New Jewish State

Palestine Reclaimed. By Redcliffe N. Salaman, M. D. with an introduction by the Hon. W. Ormsby Gore. M. P. Published by E. P. Dutton & Co.

This is the story of the Jewish battalions that fought in Palestine during the war and of the numerous colonies of Jews in their ancient homeland. It is told in a series of letters to the writer's wife, and forms an interesting commentary on conditions in Palestine and the difficulties that stand in the way of successful colonisation.

The author, who is a medical man especially interested in research work, points out the shortcomings of the colonists as unreservedly as he scores the unfriendly attitude of the occupied enemy territory administration which, he says, championed the cause of the Arabs against the Jews because the former are well armed and more likely to give trouble. The humor of the situation, the author says, lies in the fact that the Arab is sly and untrustworthy and bitterly anti-British, while the Jew is ready to be intensely loyal.

Since the letters were written Great Britain, which holds the mandatory power in Palestine, has established a civil government, under Sir Herbert Samuel, an able representative of his people. A start has thus been made toward the establishment of the Jewish nation. It depends on the good sense and loyalty of the Jews the world over, the author declares, to convert the possibility into a reality.

His chief criticism of the present colonists is that they lack organisation to a dangerous degree. He says:

"Their practical energy does not sufficiently divorce itself from its sister force, which consumes itself in idealising. It makes the work here top heavy. There is too much untutored theorising and not enough solid work to rest it on. This fault is typical of the Russian Jew—he has a definite goal in view, but there will be as many views as to the details as there are persons traversing it, and, more than that, he will become so excited over these minor differences as to split into groups and willingly weaken the forces at his disposal—ready to lose his goal, even, rather than surrender to a common plan .... Added to this is the fact that the raw material (the colonists) is physically mediocre to poor and dislikes manual work."

The hope of the sixty thousand colonists lies in the children. The young people, Dr. Salaman says, show a splendid advance on the older generation, and they work more and argue less than the original colonists. They are not orthodox, many of them not even religious in the ordinary sense of the word, but "just as of old the religion was national, now nationalism is religious," and they are working with religious fervor for the establishment of their nation.

The author sums up his belief in his people and in their efforts as follows:

"I believe in Jews. They are wonderful. We have the highest and the lowest. They are difficult and try every nerve in your body—but where are there such idealists and where a people that, after the cruelest degradation, can spring forth and blossom anew in a single generation? I am confident the experiment will be a success, not only in producing something which will be a model in civics and ethics but also by its reaction on the outside Jewries of the world."

New Sidelights On The War In Three English Books

BY OTIS SWIFT

The war and the changes that it brought are dealt with in three important new books just published in London. Despite the protests of the publishers that war books are a drug in the market, such books continue to appear in England and continue to be widely read. England felt the war too deeply and is still too close to war days and war restrictions blankly to wipe out the past in the sudden wild burst of enthusiasm and celebration that followed the armistice both in Britain and in America. The after-the-war carnival has passed, England is back to the sober facts of post-war unemployment, unrest and agitation, and now that the war leaders have begun to tell their stories in print England eagerly reads the books, seeing often for the first time the true and inside story of the great war machine.

In The Press and General Staff Major Neville Lytton, who was in control of all the press units attached to the British armies in France, has just described the workings of the censorship. He tells of the organisation of news handling, the system of pooling news and some of the difficulties under which both the censors and the censored labored. Major Lytton, for example, arranged an interview between French newspaper correspondents and Lord Haig. The interview appeared written in the usual glowing and floridly courteous French style of diction. That was all very well, but when English papers translated the interview the literal translation made Lord Haig's words appear bombastic and vaunting. Lytton was summoned to London by an angry War Cabinet, and had Lord Northcliffe not intervened it is possible that Haig might have been dismissed.

Major Lytton discusses many phases of the war and says that he was impressed by the unconscious bravery of men. He gives the example of a brother officer who, attired only in a striped bathing suit, crawled through the wire and into No Man's Land in the hope of bringing back a German prisoner. Another type of bravery was shown by the small French boy in the occupied regions who, after being petted by the Kaiser, answered the War Lord's question "Do you know who I am?" by "You're a boche, but I don't know which one."

* * *

The late Lord Fisher, ardent friend of America, was one of the most forceful and picturesque characters in the war. Some lights on his personality are given in With the Battle Cruisers, by Lieutenant Filson Young, R. N. V. R., just published. Lieutenant Young describes an interview between Lord Fisher and Winston Churchill, when both were arguing whether it was feasible to lift the censorship and give the public the news of what was happening in the naval warfare. At the end of a long diatribe Lord Fisher turned to Young, who, as a junior officer, happened to be present, and thundered:

"'Don't you agree with me?'

"I said I did, but added that I did not quite see how the existence of the navy depended on the people being kept in ignorance of its life and services, upon which he turned upon me, apparently boiling with wrath. 'Oh you don't, don't you; and who asked you for your opinion, sir?'

"You did, sir."

"'Well, I'll rub your nose in your opinion, sir,' said Lord Fisher."

Later the veteran officer apologised, saying, "Don't mind what I said just now. I am always violent. I was born violent. I wouldn't be weaned."

Lieutenant Young later in the volume points out that the facts about the war may never be known, and that eventually incomplete official reports may be recorded as history.

"About nothing that went at all wrong in the naval war did the Admiralty learn the truth, and one danger of that system is that the untruth becomes material for history and is somehow believed just because it is official."

The Gentleman With a Duster is a pseudonym widely known in England today. Mr. Harold Beebie is generally understood to be the author of the brilliant series of newspaper articles in which The Gentleman With a Duster rubbed political England very much the wrong way in The Mirrors of Downing Street. The author has now turned his attention to Mayfair and the people of society, and in a new book, The Glass of Fashion, harshly criticises the frivolity, indelicacy and corruption of social London. He deplores the cynicism, extravagance and bad manners of today, and, having shown us the sins of society under his microscope, straps them on his operating table for thorough vivisection. Here is a passage on the low ideals of marriage that shows the tenor of the book:

"It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that great numbers of young men in fashionable society pick up their wives just as a sensualist picks up a woman in the street . . . The chorus girl whom they find so seductive at a table in a restaurant, so intoxicating in the padded recesses of a motor car, is a person of no education and few morals. She would not for the world walk the pavements at night, but she would not scruple to sell herself into a union, legal or illegal, with a rich man for whom she entertains no affection .... Her solitary cleverness is a faculty for imitation. She can affect a drawl of boredom ... and powder her chin in public with the very gesture of a duke's daughter."

Household Hints

To chop mint easily, place it in a little vinegar.

An old mackintosh can be turned into a most useful apron for washing days.

* * *

When jelly refuses to thicken, put a grated carrot into a clean piece of cheesecloth and strain a few drops into the jelly pan. Then boil just a few seconds longer.

* * *

Powdered starch is a good silver polisher, and it is far superior to breadcrumbs, dough and such like for cleaning soiled wallpaper. Powdered finely and rubbed gently over the walls with a clean, soft duster or an old muslin curtain, it will remove all stains.

If a fruit cake is not put into a really hot oven at first the fruit will sink to the bottom of the tin.

To clean discolored handkerchiefs, rub with common salt, wash and dry.

* * *

If you use soapy water when making starch the clothes will have a glossy appearance and be less likely to stick to the iron.

-:- Many Scientists Scoff At Einstein -:-

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

It is admitted that the Einstein theories are of counsel of perfection, and that the Newtonian laws will continue, just as in the past, to answer all practical and most theoretical human needs and questions. There are things which to comprehend is not given to man, such as infinity, eternity and perfection. Man's conviction that they exist is inborn and unshakable, yet he feels that he cannot grasp them.

If there be any comprehension of them it is inherent in some higher state of being than that which Adam was permitted to take with him out of Eden. Even the great name of mathematics is invoked in vain to convince most of us that space is married to matter in such manner there is no space, or that time is dependent upon motion so essentially that to one traveling with the speed of light there would be no time!

That Einstein and his followers feel the full force of the "common sense" objections to these deductions is proved by their eager grasping after material support and confirmation from physical science. And it is extremely few such "confirmations" that they have been able to find—only two in strict fact, a third being as yet merely claimed in anticipation that is likely to be disappointed—while even these few are strongly disputed.

PURELY HYPOTHETICAL

Astronomers, like Professor Poor, and others, do not admit that the unquestionable irregularity of the motion of the planet Mercury, or the apparent deviation of star rays passing close by the sun, cannot be satisfactorily accounted for otherwise than by the Einstein theory, and spectroscopists find no evidence of the existence of the shifting of the lines of the spectrum toward the red end which that theory calls for, and which would constitute the third of the so-called confirmations above referred to.

Beyond this the entire structure of the theory is purely hyphothetical. In fact, it is metaphysical mathematics, in the sense that, while following methods of analysis that have grown up out of physical mathematics, it has pursued its course beyond the limits of physical verification.

It is important that the layman should understand that these extraordinary conclusions are not to be regarded as demonstrated in the sense in which scientific demonstration is usually, and properly, understood. They are the results of pure mathematical processes based on assumptions that have no footing upon the ground of actual experience. This, to return to a point noted a few sentences back, is the reason for the anxiety which the proponents of the theory do not conceal to obtain material support from ascertained facts.

IMAGINARY MATERIAL

They are aware that "mathematics is a mill the character of whose gist depends upon the nature of what is put in to be ground." Confessedly mathematics can make its methods work perfectly well upon purely imaginary material. A celebrated mathematician and astronomer, George B. Airy, made an interesting confession in the preface to a geometrical work on gravitation. "I am not unwilling to avow," he wrote, "that the simple considerations which have been forced upon me in the composition of this treatise have, in several instances, contributed much to clear up my view of points which before were obscure and almost doubtful."

He meant that, until he had resented to his mind concrete geometrical representations of the results to which algebraic and analytic processes led, he had no rational conviction that those results were in correspondence with physical reality. It may be added that if he had found any of the analytic results inconsistent with facts verifiable by experimental knowledge he would have stuck to the facts and rejected the mathematics—and so should we do whenever such a case arises.

The success of mathematical analysis in dealing with the interpretation of electro-magnetic facts has been, perhaps, slightly exhilarating, and it may have led to over-confidence, in some directions, concerning the ability of mathematics to explain the universe without paying much attention to the concrete results of mere human observation. But most wise minds will always prefer to follow Airy's judicious method of basing conviction only on indisputable, if vulgar, facts.

MANY DON'T UNDERSTAND IT

A man, putting on the blinds of vector analysis and setting his feet on an interminable ladder of differential equations, might at length find himself mounted high into outer darkness where nothing was tangible but the ladder rungs beneath his feet, and nothing even seemingly visible except visions of the "Alice in Wonderland" sort.

It is at least suggestive that one of the foremost proponents of the Einstein doctrines and their bizarre deductions, in a book written as a serious exposition of the relativity theory, actually refers, as if they were scientific documents, to the fancies of "Gulliver's Travels," of "Through the Looking-Glass" and H. G. Wells's fantastic tales.

As to the outcome of this great speculation, wait and see, and in the meanwhile don't worry if you can't understand it—perhaps nobody really understands it. Einstein himself is said to have expressed a desire to have it "proved untrue if it isn't true."

Our Garden

BY ALINE MICHAELIS

My chiefest joy is just to eat, I'm always gay when dining; I draw no line at fats or meats, for more I'm ever pining. For years I've been a connoisseur on California cherries; I've known the places to secure the finest, fattest berries. The apples grown in Idaho alone can really suit me, and when I talk of foods I know that no one dares dispute me. I once spent all my salary providing for the table; I bought with ready hand and free as long as I was able. And was I proud of all this food? You should have heard me boasting of divers viands fried and stewed, of chickens ripe for roasting! But now I've planted quite a plot to raise a home-grown garden, and I can see the stuff I got was never worth a garden. I used to send to Italy for grapes of size amazing, but they could not rank one, two, three compared with some I'm raising. I once brought peas from sunny France, most people think them splendid; but, say, those haven't got a chance sized up with these I've tended. Today it makes me sad, indeed, to think the coin I've scattered might all have gone for garden-seed and grub that really mattered. Perhaps you think me vain of these, but I am sure you'd pardon if you could see the beans and peas that flourish in my garden. The beets, the spuds, the artichokes, the cabbages and carrots make others' gardens seem like jokes, their boasting words like parrots.' No other beets are half so red, no onions are so smelly; no cabbage makes so fine a head, no currants yield such jelly! You ought to try it for yourself, and if you work with ardor, you'll have a well-stocked pantry shelf, a never-failing larder.

Stories Of The Famous

Work! That is the recipe for success advocated by J. C. Gould, M.P., whose speeches on the mining crisis aroused so much interest. At nineteen he was earning 15 shillings a week. At forty—two years ago—he negotiated a £3,000,000 deal.

The son of a mason, Mr. Gould's first job was as an office boy in Cardiff. He worked his passage to South Africa and America, picking up the experience which enabled him to start nine years ago on his own account as head of a company of marine insurance experts.

Since then he has been interested in many big shipbuilding and engineering deals, and numbers among his friends all the leading statesmen and financiers.

His one boast is that he works sixteen hours a day.

TEXACO
TEXACO THUBAN COMPOUND
a liquid lubricant for—
Differentials, Worm Drives, and Transmissions of Automobiles

Texaco Thuban Compound is a heavy, mineral lubricant—not a grease.

It gives the best obtainable lubricating service because it sticks to gear teeth. No grade, speed, nor any other adverse condition will make "Thuban" sling off. It forms a protective cushion of oil which prevents metal contact when the gears mesh, thus reducing friction and increasing power. Notice the decrease of noise when "Thuban" is used. There is no clash and grind when the gears shift.

A very little "Thuban" goes a long way. You need only enough to bathe the gear teeth as they revolve in the power housing. This is because of its adhesive power which keeps a film on them at all times. "Thuban" is a real economy because you must use it sparingly for best results.

DOROTHY'S "YOUNG MAN"

He came to call, you know—several times—and finally mother invited him to dinner.

Rather a bashful chap he was, and neither he nor Dorothy had much to say until dessert came.

Then the whole family spied Chocolate Shop ICE CREAM and they began to act natural and happy right away.

And Dorothy's "Young Man" took a second helping—said it was the BEST Ice Cream he EVER ate.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

in

"HEADIN' SOUTH"

From Canada to Mexico!

The mysterious man with the SMILE had baffled the authorities. His prowess did not lie in brutality or physical destruction, but in cool, mental calculation.

He robbed the rich—to give to the poor, for THE SPORT of it all. But the fun really starts at the Mexican border when our hero enrolls in Spanish Joe's outlaw band.

The girl he meets, and the surprising finish to his wild and wooly career as a good Bad-Man, call forth thrills and laughter that will cement your great admiration for that wonderful American.
